About the Gale

A college annual is both a record and an extravaganza. It is a contemporary spotlight and a permanent beacon. Here are the classes and the organizations, the men and the women, the institutions and some of the ideas, that go to make up the life of the college in this year of grace. Here are also the gibes and the jeers that help to keep both men and institutions from taking themselves too seriously. For college heroes and college ideals have need to walk warily in the presence of the editorial board of the GALE. The man or the organization who can face the truthful eye of the camera and the more withering fire of ridicule and come through smiling has little to fear from other attack.

Here is a contemporary chronicle untouched with and unclouded by mystery. If any doubt it, let them wait twenty years and then turn back to this GALE of 1928. Seize upon the portraits. "Was I really as young—or as crude—or as bumptious—or perhaps as good looking as that?" Yes—, to all those questions—probably all four at once. Read the jokes, and find the same truth, for it is a characteristic of humor, even college burlesque, to carry a fair measure of accurate description even in the exaggeration of ridicule. And there will be no sting in the memory. For we are all in it—all of us are sufferers in our turn in this Puckish chronicle. Perhaps it is so that history should be written.

The Senior Class

Four years ago at the threshold of old Knox was heard a step, a new, rather hesitating step. It created slight impression on the dwellers within. No one realized the momentous import of the occasion as the class of '28 made its entrance. Humble in its awe of faculty and campus celebrities, willing in its enthusiasm to work, and hopeful in its ambition for the future, '28 performed its menial task and enjoyed the privilege of being "nobody."

Then came the sophomore year. The step of '28 became a bit more dignified and important. Enthusiasm ran high. The majority of the Class tried out for every team and every activity. The step of the junior year was a busy step, a very busy, loyal, efficient step. '28 was bearing the brunt of the work in every organization and was developing a certain bearing and poise.

In the senior year the step of '28 has been even more loyal and enthusiastic. Yet it has been a step of authority. For this class can truthfully say, "We came, we saw, we conquered!" '28 proudly claims Baron, Schraub, Kull and Smiley in football; Pool, Whitman and Ross in basketball; Pool, Schraub, Layman and Kull in track; and Whitman and Baron in baseball. Then in debate appear Adams, Lindsey, Dorothy Roe and Jeanette Bent. Behind the footlights stand Arnold, Watkins, Smiley, Kelly, Elizabeth Bennett and Dorothy Rice. Many members of the class labored in the field of journalism. Of these Dorothy Parmenter edited the GALE and the Student. Leaders in women's activities were Elma Shearer in Y. W., Kathryn Keefe in W. S. G. A., and Elizabeth Sinclair in Mortar Board. Women athletes have included Shafer, Voorhees, Darlene Johnson, Goold, Gamble, Craig and Bechtold. In fact, scarcely a member of the class has not some claim to distinction.

Now a step is heard again on the threshold of Old Knox. But this step is one of departure, not of entrance. '28 is going into the world as it came to Siwash, humble, willing and hopeful. Yet it carries, too, a certain air of success, a certain intense, undefinable Knox Feeling. '28, going into the world; '28, seeing the world; '28—may it conquer!

OLD MAIN IN THE WINTER

ALUMNI HALL IN WINTER

Juniors

The Junior Class

Many and varied are the scholastic as well as extra curricular interests of the class of '29. Besides our numerous athletes, actors, journalists, and musicians, we number among our ranks several future ministers, many prospective language instructors and various would-be scientists.

Nineteen women and thirty-four men hope to receive the Bachelor of Science degree while twenty-five women and twenty men expect the Bachelor of Arts degree. In the language department six women are majoring in Latin, two women in Romance languages, eight women and one man in French, five men and five women in English, one woman in Spanish, and one man in Greek. Science claims four women and two men in the Biology department, six men and two women in Chemistry, and one man in Physics. Mathematics is chosen by nine women and four men and history by eight men and seven women. Economics is taken by the greatest number, namely twenty-two men. Five men are majoring in Bible, one man in Education, one man in Public Speaking, one woman in Sociology, and one woman in Philosophy.

We are well represented on the campus in many fields. Bill Collins, Alice Griffith, Gladys McClennahan, Rachel Bohannon, Harper Andrews, and Charles Bednar are all members of the Knox Student staff. Joe Wiley, Bus Mann, Ignatius Matkovecek, Bob Irwin, Olin Kull, Bill Collins, Fred Malcolm, Dan Carmichael, and Frank Belsley were members of the football team. Sterling Moak, Charles Bednar, Frank Belsley, and Harry Frazier were all on the basketball squad. Bus Mann is captain of the '28 track team of which Al McCutchan, Paul Church, Harold Lang, Sterling Moak, Dan Carmichael, Harper Andrews, and Ray Arnold are members. The women also seem athletically inclined for Myra Mallin, Clara Ortman, Roma Shively, Elizabeth Sterenberg, Alphild Anderson, and Mary Voorhees were all members of the varsity hockey team. Myra Mallin, Mary Chamberlain, Clara Ortman, Roma Shively, Elizabeth Sterenberg, Mary Voorhees, and Alphild Anderson were members of the two varsity basketball teams. Ruth Hull and Evelyn Peterson were on women's debate teams while Louis Gard was on the men's debate team. The Juniors were represented in the Players' Club by Mary Simpson, Horace Moses, Sterling Moak, Fred Malcolm, Harper Andrews, Katheryn Maher, Florein Cuthbert, William Gardner and Clara Ortman, nearly all of whom have had parts in club plays presented during the year.

And so we approach the end of our Junior year and begin to think of all that we have to accomplish in one more short year, we realize that we are leaving a college which has passed on to us countess invaluable ideals and traditions which have guided many others before us and will doubtless continue to serve others in the future.

Kathryn Maher

Maurice John

Jean Barry

Doris Cox

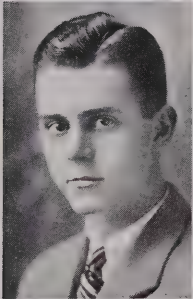

ALPHILD FRIDEBORG ANDERSON
Aurora, Minnesota

Alphild crashed into prominence last year as the perfect sophomore in the physical education department.

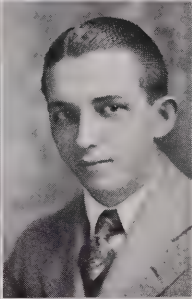

ETHEL BETSY ANDERSON Appleton

No one can say that Ethel Betsy's name has appeared on the "on probation" list, so we assume that she is a good girl.

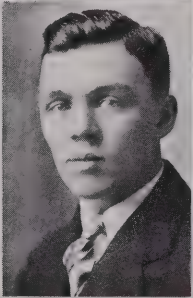

RUSSELL HARPER ANDREWS Kewanee

This illusioned youth was enticed into the net in which would-be journalists are caught, and consequently took a course in editing.

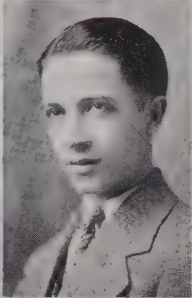

ROBERT KENNETH ARBUCKLE
Coatesville, Pennsylvania

Bob knows true values. He comes west to school from the east.

RAYMOND LOUIS ARNOLD
Salt Lake City, Utah

Louis came "east" to maintain the family representation at Knox and, incidentally, to get an education and do a little track work.

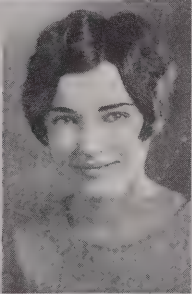

CHARLES THEODORE BALCOFF
Kirkwood

Charlie dropped in at Knox last fall, and has dispelled all doubt as to his talent in music and dramatics.

JEAN BARRY Galesburg

Jean is reported to have been seen studying once, although such affairs are kept quiet with the greatest assiduity.

RACHEL BOHANNON Galesburg

In her more serious moments Rachel claims to have ambitions in the field of commercial advertising. She writes well for the Student and the GALE.

ELIZABETH MARY BONSON
Kenosha, Wisconsin

Betty definitely committed herself when she announced her engagement at the Phi Mu formal.

MARGARET GEORGEANNA BRUCE
Lockport

Marg up and left us right in the middle of the year. We hope she will be back again next year.

FREDERICK HENRY BURGLUND

Galesburg

A right good fellow, although he will probably never realize the unnumbered honors and attendant prominence brought by a Phi Beta key.

GEORGE CHAPIN BURTON Batavia

Chirpy is often seen near Seymour hall about mealtimes. We suspect that he works there, but don't tell anyone.

HELEN EDITH CAMPBELL Peoria

Helen seems to have a scholarly attitude in her classes which is more than we can say for some people we know.

RAY CAMPBELL Galesburg

The editor of the GALE had Ray do a little research work this winter from which it was concluded that some of the faculty did not want their pictures taken.

DAN ROBERT CARMICHAEL

Harlan, Iowa

We are beginning to hear rumors that Danny is quite generally appreciated about the campus.

MARY ISABELLE CHAMBERLAIN

Lyndon

Sort of athletically inclined and studies a lot.

GEORGIA RUTH CHARLES Knoxville

Ward-Beimont and Knox are two very different schools, but Georgia seems to have arrived here and become accustomed to the climate without loss of dignity.

CHARLES ADAMS COFFEY Chicago

This large red-haired youth is one of the foundations of Alpha Theta Alpha.

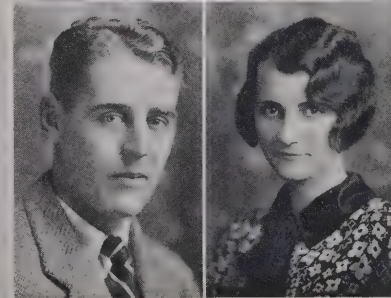

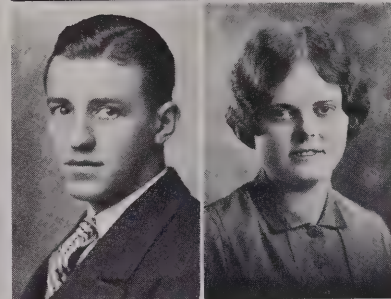

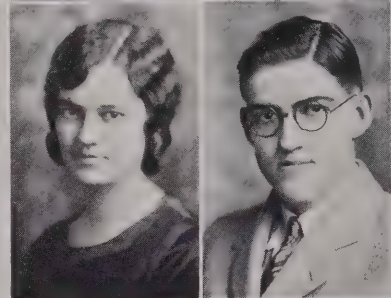

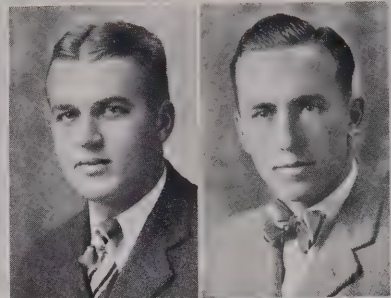

WILLIAM LOBA COLLINS

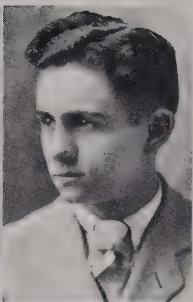

Aberdeen, S. D.

Bill started out at Knox all of a year ahead of us, but after no easy struggle we finally caught up with this shining star of wisdom.

MILDRED VELMA COONS Canton

She seems very quiet and retiring—a rare and valuable characteristic.

DORIS IRENE COX

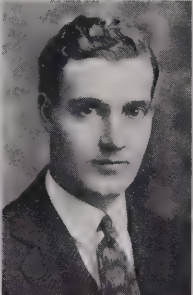

Galesburg

We've heard that Doris is quite a talker, but we wouldn't say that was not all right.

FLORIAN PIERCE CUTHBERT

Fort Madison, Iowa

Our choice morsel on the stage would be Cuthbert in an act of his own composition. He seems to have a sense of humor.

LESLIE THOMAS DIETERICH

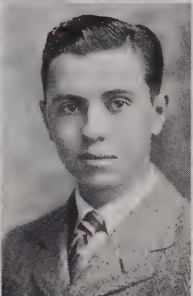

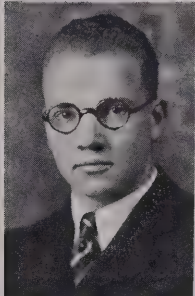

Aurora

When the GALE needed a business manager about Thanksgiving time last fall, Les was on hand and has been putting the GALE across ever since.

ARTHUR STANLEY DODGSON

LaMoille

This Mr. Dodgson seems to take Knox College quite seriously, which is possibly quite fitting and proper.

GEORGE ELBERT DREW

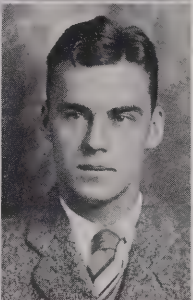

Galesburg

George and I got together the other day and decided that Professor Eyme was quite a teacher of German, although I don't take German.

AUSTIN VINCENT FELT

Roseville

A very studious lad is this smart young fellow from Roseville.

REBECCA FRANCES FELT

Galesburg

One of the leading lights of Delta Delta Delta and interested in a youth from the metropolis of LaHarpe.

HARRY LEWIS FRAZIER

Downers Grove

We see Harry on the basketball floor sometimes, and then again strolling about with Dot Baker. We hope he studies sometimes, too.

MARY ELLEN FRITSCHÉ

Peoria

Here is one enlightened young lady who saw the great advantages of attending Knox, after giving Bradley Poly. a chance.

LOUIS SCOTT GARD

Galesburg

Louis is a smart debator and an outstanding student of literary subjects.

WILLIAM HASKELL GARDNER
Salt Lake City, Utah

Although from the very lair of the Mormon religion, we have not noticed him following their most famous doctrine.

ZELDA EDITH GEORGE, A. B.
Galesburg

Miss Zelda Edith George, A. B., certainly put over a fast one by graduating way ahead of us. Her picture ought to be in the senior section but it isn't, and we're proud to have so smart a student with us for the last time.

ALICE GRIFFITH
Galesburg

By her diligent work in news writing, Alice promises to be one of our most prominent journalists if she takes a notion to be.

JOHN LOUIS GROUT
Oak Park

Louis got mad and went home, I guess, but we expect he will be right in there pitching next year.

HILDRETH A. HANNETT
Berwyn

Really, Hildreth, we hate to call you by your first name, but we can't resist the temptation here.

DORIS ALDRICH HAZLETT
Galesburg

We have begun to think that Bill stayed out of school a year just so he could graduate with Dorie.

MARY LOUISE HOAGLUND
Galesburg

Mary Louise? Oh yes—Dick Hoaglund. She never got very excited about attending Knox College as far as anyone could tell.

WILLARD J. HOLDEN
Warner

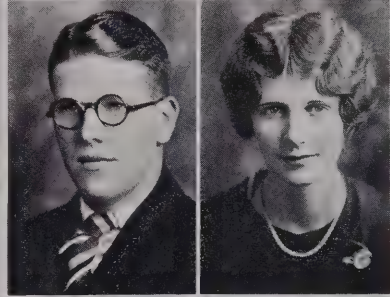

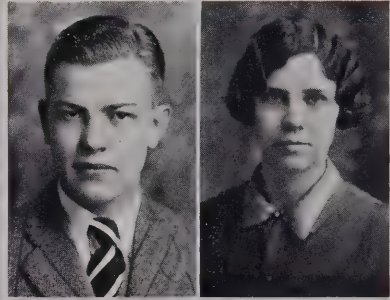

Willard is one of the most quiet young men we know of. Lambda Chi Alpha claims him.

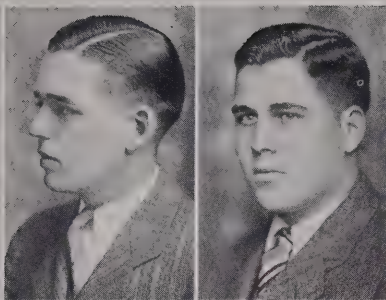

ALICE V. HOSFORD
Hamilton

No one ever heard of this girl getting anything but an A in any course in college, and probably she wouldn't want any other grade anyway.

RUTH IRENE HULL
Dallas City

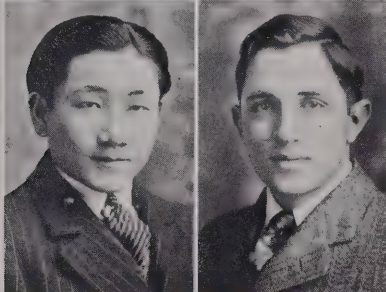

Ruth is one of our debators. We would like to see the women debate the men sometime. It would settle a question of long standing.

CHARLES RICHARD HURBURGH
Galesburg

Dick seems to have time left after studying every day to manage intramurals and maintain his brotherly standing among the Phi Deltas.

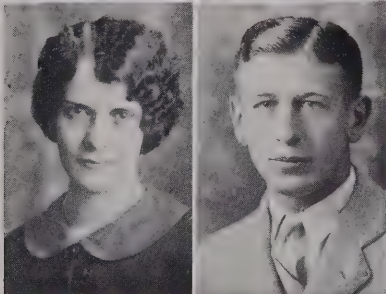

ROBERT OGARD IRWIN Savanna

According to Oley Magnusson, all Bob needs to make him an all-American center in football is plenty of competition. We hope he gets it.

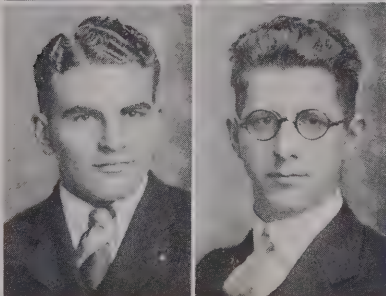

CLYDE HIDEO ISHII Kehaa, Hawaii

Clyde came a long ways to study and play baseball at Knox, and we are sure glad he came because he does both in a proficient manner.

MAURICE TABBERT JOHN
La Salle

Here's our manager. Beginning with baseball, there's no telling what this energetic fellow will manage before he gets done here.

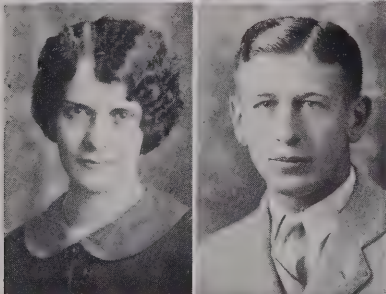

OLAETTE GENNET JURY Dover

We haven't heard of this young lady setting fire to Old Main nor throwing bricks through the library window, and we hope she never does because we like her better just as she is.

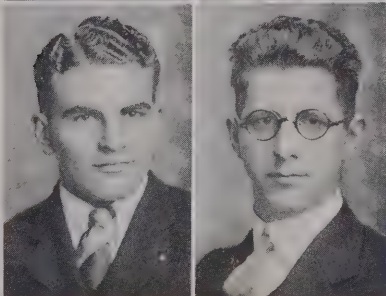

ALICE BURTON KENNEDY
Waukegan

Just one of the W. A. A.ers and determined to keep Knox women on their toes athletically.

GLADYCE EULALA KIRKPATRICK
Galesburg

Gladyce is very much more often seen than heard about the Knox campus.

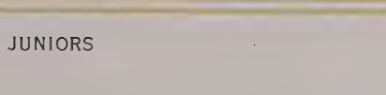

ARNOLD LEWIS KLEIN
Downers Grove

We trust Arnie will be around next year to take good care of the Phi Gam boys again.

OLEN IVAN KULL Strasburg

Olie really should be in the senior section, but they wouldn't let us put him there, and really the Junior class is honored by the presence of a Friar, a football player and a good boy.

WALTER LAETSCH Buda

Anbody who knows about the big, bad town of Buda would be afraid to be out after dark with this man in school. He is no doubt a villain of some sort, being from such an environment.

HAROLD LANG

Smithshire

Harold seems to have come to school with some purpose, although we could not say just off-hand what it might be. He is interested in track, and is seen near the Beta house sometimes.

MARY BERMA LONGWORTH

Copperhill, Tenn.

Without making much of a racket, Mary has the air of knowing all about what the prof is talking about.

VIRGINIA McCOMAS LOVELACE

Galesburg

We can't even imagine Virginia anywhere but right in her proper place in class taking thorough notes on the lecture.

GLADYS MARGARET McCLENAHAN

LaFayette

Following the family precedent, Gladys seems to have a lot of ability in journalism, which is one step somewhere.

DOROTHY IRENE McCORMICK

Rushville

Ever since Dorothy was in our English 1 course we've had a wholesome respect for her scholastic ability.

KATHRYN ANNE MAHER

Elmwood

Kathryn is our president, our leading actress, leading student, and well, she leads about anything she wants to.

FRED ARTHUR MALCOLM

Freeport

Freddie is known in football, and he can sing. One of the good boys of Lambda Chi Alpha.

MYRA MALLIN

Galesburg

According to the statistics, Myra has made a solid reputation in women's athletics.

CORNELIUS A. MANN

Glendale, Calif.

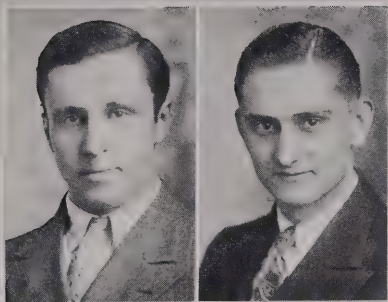

Bus is one of the Beta captains and personally does his bit in the backfield at halfback and by breaking broad jump records here and there.

BEVERLY PIERCE MANNING

Omaha, Nebr.

Beverly is one of our leading journalists and helps the Tri-Delts maintain their grasp on sorority scholarship honors.

IGNATIUS ALBERT MATKOVCIK

Cicero

By hard and consistent work Iggy has made a name for himself at Knox for his football playing and his scholarship. He is one of our two football captains next year.

STERLING LIONEL MOAK

Victoria

Smoky sort of throws the dust in their eyes in basketball games, and to add insult to injury persists in winning points in track meets. He's getting to be quite an actor, too.

HORACE SMITH MOSES

Salina, Kansas

Horace is responsible for the sketches in the scenic section. He also does excellent scene painting and stage designing. In fact, Horace will probably come to our attention again some day.

CLARA MARIE ORTMAN

Canton

We would hate to see Clara take Smoky's attention away from athletics entirely, although we'll let her have him some of the time.

ZELLA MAE OSWALT

Galesburg

Professor Whitford finds that in his more intricate duties he needs the assistance of this member of our class as secretary.

EVELYN LOUISE PETERSON

Galesburg

Evelyn is the president of the French club this year, which includes many Juniors among its active members.

NOEL FRANK PHILLIPS

Jonesboro

Noel is one of the Military boys and certainly will make a good-looking general some day.

FEROL D. ROBERTS

Galesburg

The consensus of opinion is that Miss Roberts is something of a student.

ROBERT MAXWELL ROBINSON

Aurora

Bob is a musician. He often plays in an orchestra. He's one of the more energetic of the A. T. A.'s.

RALPH EDWARD SHEESE

Galesburg

Here is a potential athlete. He started out with a bang, but circumstances evidently have deprived Knox of his ability.

ROMA LOUISE SHIVELY Elmwood
Another follower of the great god, Athletics, is Roma.

MARY COE SIMPSON Galesburg
Mary is an actress with a record of some success even though she has been here only a year.

MARGARET FRANCES SINCLAIR Galesburg
If it wasn't for the fact that we know Marty is all right we would be inclined to think otherwise, from her record of having attended Ward-Belmont.

GERTRUDE MAURINE SMITH Galesburg
Beanie is one of those people with a nickname that one ordinarily can't figure out.

CLIFFORD HOWARD SWEAT Galva
We heard Clifford sing in chapel the other day, and he certainly has some talent in that line. He sang in the Homecoming show, too.

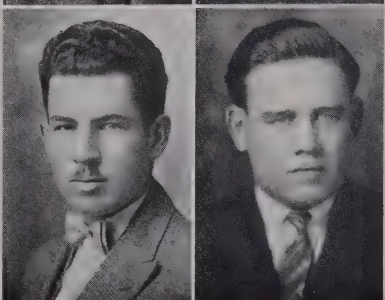

ROBERT C. TAYLOR, JR. Virginia
Bob will never sweep the world off its feet with his energy, but he is a leader in the Phi Gam chapter.

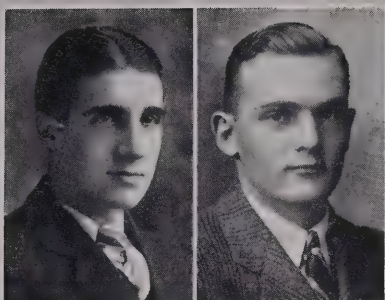

WALTER HAROLD THOMPSON Carthage
Skinny startled us early in his Knox career with his football playing, and we hope he isn't out with injuries next season again.

MARY MAXINE THOMPSON Galesburg
It would be a logical assumption to say that if Mary was not a Tri Delt their chapter average would drop considerably.

JOHN GERALD TUNNICLIFF Davenport, Iowa
Originally of the class of '28, Jerry was out of school awhile and will have another year to guide the Sig Kaps through the many intricacies of interfraternity life.

RICHARD MONROE WARNOCK Aledo
We always thought Dick was quite a substantial young fellow until he cut classes for a week straight this spring. We don't know what to think.

FRANK LOUIS BELSLEY Washington

Just another Phi Delt basketball captain is Abie, and a pretty good boy to be acquainted with.

WILLIAM DICKSON CRAWFORD Galesburg

This little half-pint, about six feet, four, absent-mindedly broke a couple of discus records during the 1927 track season, and will probably continue to break such records next year.

LAWRENCE EUGENE CRAWFORD Galesburg

Gene is Bill's little brother, and besides playing baseball, helps run the A. T. A. chapter.

GEORGE TIFFANY FOSTER New Rochelle, N. Y.

George can tell you all about the United States from Galesburg to the eastern seaboard if you just give him half a chance.

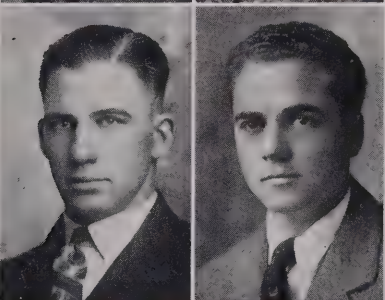

HENRY WARD HARMS Knoxville

We could never see how these people who live in Knoxville and attend Knox could ever get here in time for an eight o'clock, but this boy does it.

MARION KASBEER Princeton

Really, dear, you should see this little whirlwind do a chemistry experiment, and the way she talks to Professor Eyme, why—really, I mean it's just simply terrific.

CHARLES G. KEIGWIN Walnut

Ever since Keigwin looped the loop on his motorcycle we have been waiting for him to get well and show us how to throw the discus again.

JONATHAN WYATT LATIMER Chicago

Besides playing golf and tennis exceptionally well, Jack has the knack of knowing all about everything without any visible effort.

BETTY MAHONEY Downers Grove

Betty is one of that terrible fourth floor gang in Whiting Hall. We heard they tried to burn the place from the top down the other day.

MARGARET MORELAND Galesburg

Margaret is one of the more studious members of our class.

BURTON RAYMOND CARLSON

New Windsor

Raymond is just about the most quiet fellow we ever saw or heard of. We wish there were more like him.

JAMES HENRY COY, Jr. LaGrange

Here is another of the big gang from LaGrange which threatens to make up the larger part of Knox College some day. He upholds the name and fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta.

EDITH HEDLUND

Galesburg

It seems to us that we have seen Edith often in the Science building. One of our more scientifically minded young ladies, perhaps.

ALICE CAROLYN SAAR Chicago

To the best of our knowledge, Alice is one of the most popular juniors, and why shouldn't she be?

WINFIELD WALTER SCOTT Pittsfield

Scotty puts in a large part of his time working and playing baseball, both of which he does with unusual efficiency.

HARRIET ELIZABETH SMITH

Galesburg

When we first knew this Miss Smith her name was Betty; now we have to call her Harriet. We haven't decided yet whether to let her change her name or not.

ELIZABETH ION STERENBERG

Galesburg

Elizabeth is one of the smartest scholars in the junior class, and that is a compliment to anyone. We mean to say that the junior class has some good scholars among its numbers.

MARY MARGARET VOORHEES

Galesburg

It looks as if we have made another mistake, for Mary always belonged to the senior class before. But of course if she will allow us to put her in this section we will certainly do so.

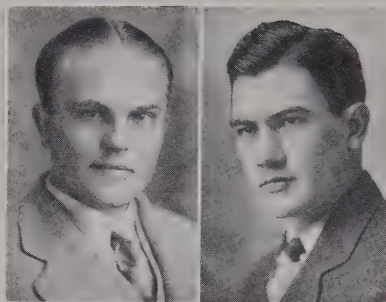

RICHARD WILLIAM VELDE

Manito

Richard is one of the mainstays of Sigma Kappa Psi. He put over some of the most spectacular basket shooting that we ever saw in the intramural basketball games.

DAVID JEFFRY WALTON Bowen

Baseball and Phi Delta Theta seem to take most of Jeff's time, although he does find time to make himself agreeable to the rest of us.

SUSAN ELIZABETH WATERMAN

Seattle, Wash.

It's a long ways from Seattle to Knox College, but Sue thinks just that much of Knox to come way out here to go to school.

ELEANOR NAOMI WILSON Fairview

Eleanor is so smart that we put her picture in here and with the conservatory juniors too, because she is a credit to any group.

JOSEPH ROBERT WILEY Champaign

Among our many athletic captains for next year is Joe. He won the honor of election as dual-captain in football by his hard work on the field.

BETTY WOODS

Chicago

Although Betty has only been with us a year she has been in the limelight several times.

MIRIAM KATHERINE ZENDT

Galesburg

The only junior whose name begins with Z. That's the only reason she is at the last of the class pictures. She is found at the front in most other groups.

WILLIAM ROBERT PANKEY

Galesburg

Bill seemed to have some profound objection to having his picture taken for this section, but persuading him of the enormous importance of having his picture we finally got one for you.

MORRIS KARL HODEFER

Donnellson, Iowa

There was some doubt at first as to whether Morris was a member of our class or not, but we finally found the evidence and here he is.

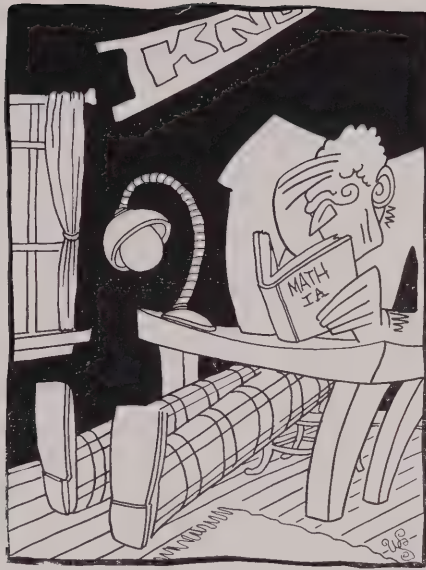

The Junior Prom

Under the supervision of Hildreth Hannett, the business manager selected from the Junior class by the Student Council, the junior prom committee made elaborate arrangements and a successful formal party was held in the Winter Garden on March 16. The committee in charge were elected some time before by the junior class, who voted on names brought before them by petition.

Betty Mahoney acted as chairman of the committee in the extensive work connected with the prom. The grand promenade, the customary climax of the formal season, was led by Kathryn Maher, class president, Wade Arnold, Betty Mahoney, and Arnold Klein. The other committee members responsible for the success of the affair are Maurine Smith, Jean Barry, Clara Ortman, and Maurice John.

Underclasses

The Sophomore Class

In the year just past, the Sophomores have contributed their full share toward campus activities. As Freshmen we showed marked tendencies toward prominence in campus organizations and this year have been running true to form.

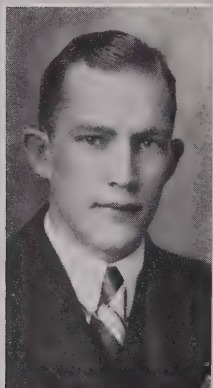

In all campus activities, athletics, journalism, dramatics, debate, many Sophomores have taken part, with the result that they have created new records of achievement. To the matter of that annual classic, the class scrap, we shall give but scant notice, as is also true of the Freshman-Sophomore basketball game, for both are doubtless sufficiently discussed elsewhere. Suffice it to say that the Sophomores, although their plan of attack was most efficiently organized, were overwhelmed by superior numbers.

When football made its appearance upon the campus, several candidates reported, who during the course of the season proved to be letter men. Hitchcock, Block, Reed and Massie showed their ability in this line. The basketball season brought Block, Hitchcock, and Kaspar into prominence, while on the cinder path, Elliott, Taylor, Tennery, Hitchcock, Bolin, McBride, Hayward, Kelly, Mueller and Olmstead showed their prowess.

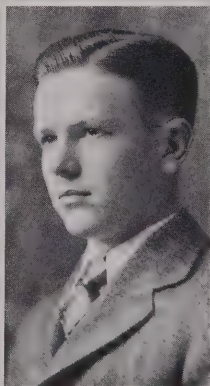

However, when it comes to athletics, the men are not alone in their achievements. The Sophomore girls' hockey team, composed of Jean Hedge, Frances Andrews, Lois Harris, Josephine Strain, Georgia Shearer, Eleanor Phillips, Louise Engstrand, Sarah Perry, Ruth Manning and Josephine Keefe, was victorious over all rivals while the basketball team, composed of Frances Andrews, Josephine Strain, Margaret Guilford, Lois Harris, Barbara Sinclair, Mary Dickson and Georgia Shearer also subdued all opposing forces.

In the world of dramatics we find Patricia Foley, Helen Strubhar, Louise Jarl, Jean Godolphin, Louise Engstrand, Betty Keiler, Dorothy Ryan, Bill Churchill and James Switzer, and in the journalistic field are George Kaspar, Josephine Keefe, Kenneth Lyon, Ray Smolik, Vernon Marvel, Louise Engstrand, George Irwin, Kenneth Knight, Bill Wolf, Lorraine Smith, Ruth McHugh and Tom Cooke.

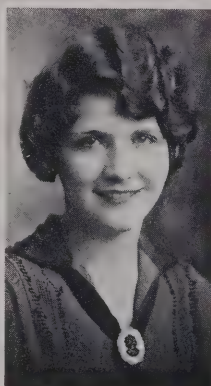

Such has been our record for the past year, and as Juniors we will strive to keep our status as an active group, in order that the class of 1930 may continue its achievements toward upholding the reputation of Knox.

FAMOUS FROSH

By Marion Christy

Famous frosh? Our numbers's ample,
 And we can only give a sample;
 But some day, when they've all won fame,
 Remember—we foretold the same.

SUMNER COLLINS

Collins, if you don't look out
 You'll be a famous man;
 For no one causes so much note
 As a hardened bachelor can.

BETTY ERWIN

Betty's got the cutest eyes,
 And lips red as a rose;
 But the thing that makes her famous
 Is her shapely little nose.

JACK MURPHY

Jack Murphy—he's our president;
 His temper—gee, it's "fire-ish."
 And can't you guess the reason why?
 It's all because he's Irish.

DOT WALLACE

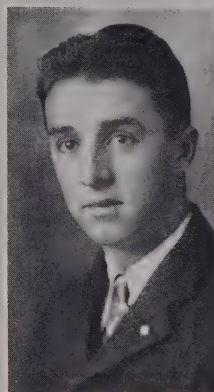

Don't let 'em kid you, Dottie,
 Because you are so small;
 You know they wouldn't like you
 If you should grow up tall.

BOB SWITZER

Bob will be a famous man—
 We're here to tell you so;
 He'd tell you if we'd coax him—But
 He hates to talk, you know!

Dads' Day

One of the most picturesque and violent events of the year took place in the form of a Freshman-Sophomore class scrap on Dad's Day, November 12. It was a part of the week-end of entertainment provided for visiting Dads. The dads are urged, however, to keep it firmly in mind that this sort of thing is not a weekly occurrence.

Attendance by the dads themselves put the events over. It was especially noticeable at the banquet held in their honor in Seymour Hall on Friday. There the fathers and their sons enjoyed a fine meal and a most remarkable program under the toastmastership of Zens Smith, assistant to the president. Mr. Smith presented Wade Arnold, '28, and Walter Schmidt, '31, as two archaeologists, the first a technician and the second an artist. This talented pair expounded on and illustrated some of the wierd beings, such as college professors and college students, found in and near Galesburg.

Saturday morning the class scrap was held, the Freshmen winning, as usual, the right to refuse to button to the Sophomores. In the evening Barry Conner's comedy, "The Patsy," was given by the Knox Players' club at the Plaza theater. Professor Menser had directed the play in his customary, efficient manner. Katherine Maher and Wade Arnold did excellent work in the leading parts, while the cast as a whole showed intelligent work and training.

Alumni

The Centenary and Alumni Fund

"In 1937 Knox College will be one hundred years old. In the same year three of its buildings now in use, Old Main, the central part of Whiting Hall and Beecher Chapel—will be eighty years of age. This accident of age led the President and Business Manager of the college to a rather careful consideration of the needs and possibilities of the college at the end of its first century. Naturally, the results of such a study take the form almost immediately of a statement of the financial needs of the college, in the shape of additional endowment and additions to permanent buildings, grounds and equipment. This has resolved itself into an attempt to sum up the total that in our judgment should be added under these headings in the ten years beginning February 15, 1927, and ending February 15, 1937."

With this statement President Britt announced the Centenary fund for Knox at the Founders' Day banquet in 1927. He had a completely outlined plan to present at that time, and the whole was published in the Knox Alumnus.

It is a plan to bring the income and equipment of the college up to the present student needs in a degree not true as yet of any college west of the Alleghenies, and to keep pace with the natural growth of student population and the diversifying of our desires and activities.

The alumni fund idea is based on the fact that a small annual contribution is equal in maintenance power to twenty times its amount in endowment. As the average alumnus can part with the amount of 5% interest on $100 each year more easily than he can with the actual $100, this fund should reach many who take no part in endowment campaigns. Even the more affluent donors can give $100 annually more easily than $2,000, the principal required to yield the former amount.

The program is headed by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, with an alumni National Advisory Committee. The Executive Committee outlines the policies and works through class agents appointed by the alumni association. The Knox plan has been successful enough to have gained the attention of other schools and some have already adopted the plan for their own use. Among these is De Pauw University.

During the year 1927 the number of contributors amounted to more than 1500. The work has been carried on to a great extent through the official organ of the alumni, The Knox Alumnus, edited by Kenneth Lawyer.

ALUMNI READING ROOM—SEYMOUR LIBRARY

The Alumni Office

During the school year 1927-28 the alumni office has been in a continual round of activity. It has much work to do, and the staff, under the Alumni Secretary, Kenneth Lawyer, accomplishes much. Since the coming of Mr. Lawyer the office has grown until it is much too large for its present quarters on the first floor of Old Main.

Perhaps one of the most important phases of the work of the Alumni Secretary is the editing of the Knox Alumnus, published by the Alumni Association. This monthly magazine is printed every month and sent to the alumni of the college. It is a comparatively large publication of its kind, consisting as it does of some 32 pages or more of printed matter, always of vital interest to those who have attended Knox in the past. Knox alumni are kept informed on the events taking place on the campus, as well as on news of the graduates of all the classes. Special articles of interest to the alumni in general are printed in each article, and much of the work of the Alumni and Centenary funds is carried on in the pages of this magazine.

Along with and in close connection with this magazine, the office keeps an up-to-date file of all alumni of the college. This involves the ascertaining of addresses, getting changes of address, changes of occupation, marriages and deaths, and in general keeping in close touch with the large number of alumni of Knox. The work of a great many of the alumni has assumed more than local importance in many cases, and the alumni editor often has accounts of the latest achievements of prominent alumni printed in the magazine.

There is also a continuous stream of literature of various sorts being sent out of this office. In connection with the Alumni and Centenary funds there are a great many special bulletins sent out. Whenever there is an event of importance and interest to the alumni of the college they are properly notified and informed. In addition, a new catalog of Knox alumni is being compiled this year, which involves a huge amount of work in identifying and locating the alumni and getting them into their proper classes and classifications.

In all, the work of the Knox Alumni office is designed to keep Knox alumni in as close touch with Knox as possible; to inform them as to the achievements and occurrences in the lives of other alumni, and of the present day Knox. To this end, the Secretary and his staff concentrate their endeavors.

The Freshman Induction Week

This year's orientation work for 250 new freshmen of the college found Professor R. C. Whitford prepared well in advance with speakers and a general course of instruction, and the program was given at Beecher Chapel during two days for the entire group.

Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17, the freshmen were here for the first days of school, in the annual freshman induction, and heard many of the college's leading representatives address them on principles, customs, and the general idea of Old Siwash.

President Britt made the opening address Friday morning in a general talk of welcome, and a speech on "The Great Freshman Electives." He told the 1931 students their opportunities were great in college, and urged the group to make the most of them.

Announcements and the intelligence test followed. In the afternoon Professor Whitford spoke on "The Problem of Study," Professor Elder on "The Use of the Knox Library," Professor Curtis on "Budgeting Time and Money," and Kenneth Lawyer on "College Customs."

Dean W. E. Simonds and Miss Sherman, dean of women, addressed the new students at Friday evening's banquet. Saturday morning a general meeting was held with announcements, followed by a talk on "Activities" by Professor Shaw. An English test was given the freshmen at this meeting.

A class meeting and photograph was made Saturday afternoon, as the informal closing of all the induction meetings. Meals were served the groups at the halls, and in the rushing going on at the time most of the freshies were kept running from Beecher Chapel to the fraternity houses and downtown.

The success of the induction is seen in the way the freshmen acclimated themselves during the next and first week of school.

The Freshman Class

A freshman at Knox finds himself under the control of a body called the Student council. Although he knows not how or where this all-powerful body come from, they seem to regulate many of his actions. Perhaps one of the most notorious of these regulations is the rule which mysteriously appears in hand-bill form about the campus warning the Frosh to get their green caps out for the season. About noon of the same day there is a rush at the downtown stores for the pretty, verdant head-gears and soon the campus is infested with these green topped freshmen. They go about their way with an occasional stoop and smirk as some upperclassman or sophomore calls out "button!"

The wearing of these green caps is of great assistance to the rest of the student body in order that they may better identify the freshman and help him in his difficulties in finding his way about the campus. For example, freshmen habitually have trouble in finding Alumni hall. They get lost on their way to 204 S. H., not knowing that this array of hieroglyphics means a room on the second floor of the George Davis Science hall which stands on the northeast corner of the Knox campus. They often could not find the northeast corner of the campus without consulting a compass.

Freshman girls appear also at certain times with symbols of their elementary station in life worn on the head or in the form of hose of brilliant green. They have the great disadvantage of not benefitting by that great institution "buttoning" which the Freshman men profit by to such a great extent.

Among other ancient and venerable traditions taught the frosh is that smoking on the campus leads to one's becoming a veritable outcast from society at Knox. In fact, the censure resulting from such a monstrous crime as smoking on the campus would lead to the life-long ridicule and finally probably ignominious end of a violator of a fundamental law of the universe. In other words, there is no smoking on the campus.

We always tip our hats to professors. And we always speak to everyone we see on the campus, whether we know them or not, for they are undoubtedly worthy of our greeting.

The 1927 Homecoming

Homecoming in October, 1927, was one gay time after another. First of all, the weather was ideal for the ancient hobo attire which students of the college donned for the occasion of the parade of floats in the morning and for the pep meeting immediately preceding the football game with Illinois College.

Friday night, Knoxites young and old were entertained by the presentation of the musical comedy, "Once in a Blue Moon," the characters in which were portrayed by members of the Knox student body. After the play, a bonfire was held on Willard field and yells and songs were given for the whole team and for individual members led by Wesley Gee and Richard Jolly.

Saturday morning, the parade of floats, each representing an organization on the campus, formed and passed along the streets of Galesburg. Alpha Theta Alpha's float was judged the best fraternity float while Pi Beta Phi was believed to have the best in the sorority class. The best all-school float was that of Le Cercle Francais.

Early in the afternoon, students in costumes of the vintage of 1900 assembled in Beecher Chapel where they sang college songs and were entertained by various members of the audience. Betty Bennett entertained with several piano and vocal selections and Frenchy and Herby Hart performed in like manner. At the same time, Harry Webster was awarded a prize for the most beard and Richard Hoover for the least. Following this, Elaine White and Charles Stevens were crowned King and Queen Hobo and, as monarchs, led their subjects in parade to Willard field for the football game.

At the conclusion of the game, hoboos and hoboesses departed to prepare for the banquet and dance at Seymour hall. Mr. Zens Smith was toastmaster and he presented Wade Arnold as the "Spirit of '56," who compared the student of '56 with one of today. Bob Clark, '18, gave several musical selections on the piano and after a recitation by Robert Woolsey, the dinner closed with the singing of "Hail Knox all Glorious." The dance given afterward was well attended and cups for prize house decorations were received with much enthusiasm. Alpha Theta Alpha won the fraternity cup for their decorations and Seymour hall won the prize for best dormitory decorations.

SPORTS

Athletics at Knox play a prominent part in the lives of the students. Almost every student takes part in some form of organized exercise. A sound body is conducive to a sound mind, and both to service in a Christian Community.

The Athletic Board of Control convenes once a month for the purpose of deciding on the athletic policies of Knox and of regulating athletics of the college. The board, which co-operates with the "K" Council for the betterment of athletics, supervises the finances of college athletics, the athletic schedules, the award of varsity letters and numerals, and the appointment of managers for the athletic teams. The board is made up of two representatives of the athletic association, one member of the Knox faculty, one member of the board of trustees, and one member of the Knox Alumni Association. The president of the Athletic Association, elected by the students, is ex-officio chairman of the board without a vote. The Business Manager of the College who acts as Secretary and Treasurer of the board does not have any voting power. The only voting members are the Alumni member, the Trustee member, the Faculty member, and the two under-graduate members. Only wearers of the major "K" are eligible for election to the two under-graduate offices.

The Coaches

Under the able leadership of Earl R. Jackson, Director of Athletics, the coaching staff has built up a strong system of inter-collegiate and intra-mural athletics at Knox. Coach Jackson has immediate charge of the football and track teams, while Coach Dean Trevor has charge of the basketball team. John Barrow assisted in the coaching of the Freshman football squad, which was directed by Coach Oley Magnusen. Trevor acted last fall as varsity line coach.

The success this year of the inter-collegiate teams is undoubtedly due in a large part to the work of this coaching staff. Their instruction of the players has been competent, and their requirement of a high quality of sportsmanship on the part of all the players has kept Knox athletics on a spotless plane.

Coach Jackson has especially developed an efficient system of intramural sports at Knox. A large percent of the men in school compete in the intramural games during the year, besides those who have the time and ability to engage in varsity sports. Underclassmen also are required to enroll in physical education classes. Under the supervision of Coach Jackson minor sports are played. Teams are organized in tennis, golf, and swimming.

With the adoption of the ruling against freshman eligibility, the work with the freshmen has become more important. In the four major sports, football, basketball, track, and baseball, the freshmen have been coached diligently and numerals given for outstanding work. Emphasis is placed on athletics as a building and training process, and consistent work is encouraged with careful medical supervision and constant maintenance of training rules among the athletes. The results have been entirely complimentary to the coaches and to the school.

The Hunter Trophy

The greatest reward for scholastic and athletic attainments that Knox offers is the Hunter Trophy. This trophy was presented by Dr. George W. Hunter, former Knox professor, in 1920, to be awarded to the two-letter man making the highest scholastic average during his junior year in college. The donor of the Hunter Scholastic Trophy was particularly interested in recognizing that individual who strives for scholastic brilliancy and an unusual athletic ability.

W. Rex Schraub, who has distinguished himself in football and track, and who has ranked high in scholastic ability, was awarded the Hunter Scholastic Trophy for the 1926-27 term.

The winners of the trophy in the past are:

1919-20—Adolph Hamblin

1920-21—Frank Jay Welch

1921-22—Ralph F. Albro

1922-23—J. Henry Hermetet

1923-24—Karl J. Harrison

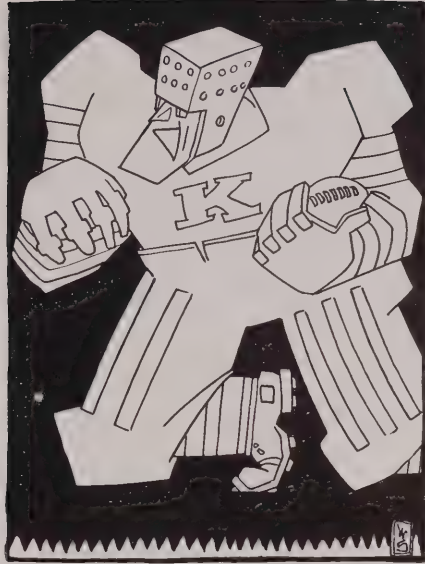

1924-25—Dean Spaulding Trevor

1925-26—Marvin Hughes

1926-27—W. Rex Schraub

Football

The 1927 Football Season

Manager William Pankey

The 1927 season opened with a vast amount of enthusiasm. Football was the most talked of topic at Knox. Football prospects were especially bright when approximately thirty-five promising candidates reported for daily morning and afternoon sessions during the early part of September. The practice squad included twelve letter men, several players experienced elsewhere, and the most promising members of the 1926 Frosh team. The pigskin squad was coached by a staff composed of Jackson, Magnuson, and Trevor.

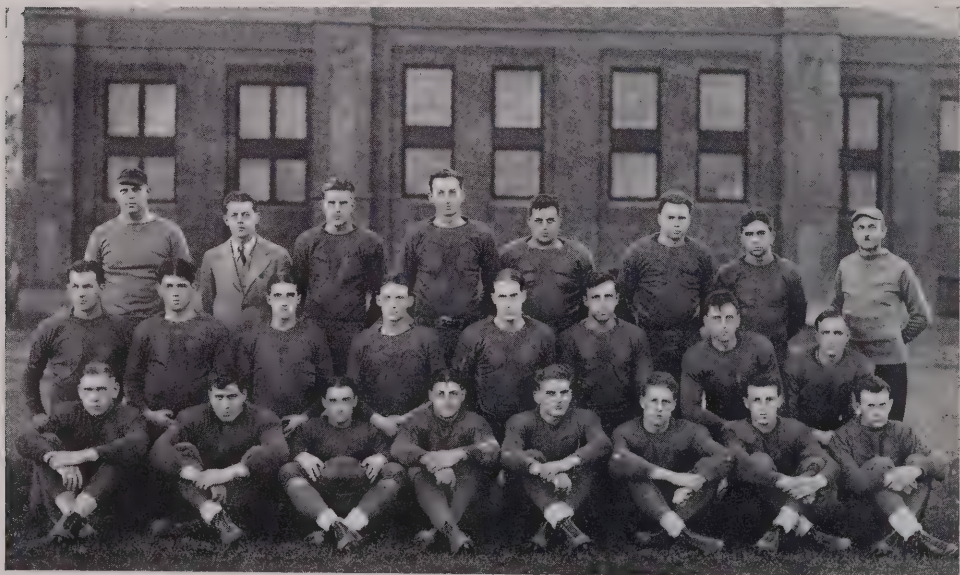

The coaching staff began to whip into shape a team which in the greater part delivered the things expected of them. The team, led by Captain Baron, beat Augustana, Beloit, Illinois College, and Monmouth. The Siwash eleven lost four games to Illinois Wesleyan, Bradley, Coe, and Cornell, ending the season with a .500 average. The four teams who beat Knox did it with superior football.

The first game of the season was played with Augustana at Rock Island, on October 1. The whole contest was played in a drizzling rain which made any fast open work impossible because of the slippery field and ball. Knox beat the home eleven, 10-0, in an unusually hard game for the first of the season. Will Massie, sophomore end, scored Knox's first touchdown of the year in the first quarter by scooping up a blocked punt.

The second contest of the season was played against Illinois Wesleyan October 8, on Willard Field. The Siwashers bowed before the visitors by a score of 14 to 0. Costly breaks played a decisive part in determining the score. The winners scored their first touchdown by recovering a Knox fumble and then smashing through the Siwash line for six counters.

On October 15, the Siwashers invaded the Bradley camp and received the small end of the 34-6 score. Bradley, Little 19 champions for 1927, played superior ball to defeat Coach Jackson's pupils, and scored at will against the invading eleven. Mann, Hitchcock, and Matkovicsek played best for Knox, Mann grabbing a Bradley pass late in the last stanza and galloping sixty yards to Knox's only touchdown.

On October 22, the Siwash football eleven "came back" and walloped Beloit by the score of 19 to 7 at Beloit, Wisconsin, to put gloom into a Beloit Homecoming. Knox uncorked a fierce passing attack all throughout the game to score, and displayed a sturdy defense to stop Beloit's line smashes. Captain Baron, Mann, Wiley, Hitchcock, and Belsley gave the Beloit fans a thrill, exhibiting snappy field running and passing. Matkovecek and Block played a stellar game in the line for Knox. Captain Baron and his teammates exhibited a brand of real football to conquer the scrappy Illinois college team, October 29, on Willard Field. The game was played before a Knox Homecoming crowd, one of the largest crowds to witness a football contest at Galesburg in the past several years. The fighting Siwashers won, 12-0, registering both touchdowns of the game in the first quarter.

The Knox eleven traveled to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on November 5, to engage the strong Coe team, only to lose, 6-0, in the closing minutes of the game. Both played brisk football on practically even terms and threatened touchdowns. The determined Knoxites twice marched down the field only to be stopped by the husky Kohawks at the Coe goal-line. Knox fought valiantly in their Dad's day game against Cornell College of Mount Vernon, Iowa, November 12, on Willard Field, but the Iowa eleven, led by the star Crabtree, scored a 6-0 verdict over the Jackson aggregation.

The last game of the season was against Monmouth, Knox's ancient rival, on Thanksgiving Day, November 24. The contest was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 2,500. The Siwashers scored the winning points in the final minutes of the third quarter when Massie grabbed a lateral Monmouth pass and ran seventy-five yards to give Knox a decision over the Monmouth invaders. Captain Baron, Mann, Massie, Matkovecek, and Block starred for the winning Siwashers.

Next fall should give the Knox coaches a better stock of experienced material, for, from the present indications, an excellent eleven may be predicted. Captain Baron, Kull, Schraub, and Smiley are the only members who will not return to the squad next fall. William Pankey, a junior, was football manager this last year. Bill was efficient in his work, and enough credit cannot be given him for his good services.

Illinois College puts one over—Knox fights!

BY LEE BLESSING

JOE WILEY—CAPT.-ELECT, BACKFIELD. Stud completed his third season as a member of the varsity and was honored by his team-mates by being elected dual captain of next year's pigskin congregation. Stud played at the fullback post all last fall. Few backs could equal his defense prowess and tackling, while he was a continual menace on attack. While being fast enough to figure on the receiving end of Knox's vaunted passing game, Stud was in addition a solid plunger and a passer. Wiley, who is a cool, highly intelligent performer, has one more year of competition and big things are predicted for the agile youth of Champaign.

DAN CARMICHAEL—END. Last fall marked Carmichael's first season as a regular member of the Knox varsity football team. Dan played regular end all season, and at all times he played a heady game. He had the faculty of knowing just what to do at the right time. He was fast at getting down under punts and was a sure, consistent tackler. Dan was a great man at breaking up interference. Dan was well developed in every respect as an end, and consistent all-around play marked the Iowa youth. He has one more year of varsity competition.

CORNELIUS MANN—BACKFIELD. Bus, playing his second year as a regular on the Siwash eleven, played a great game at halfback all season. He was a sensational ball carrier, a sure tackler, and an excellent forward passer. He showed his ability to punt, being always quick and accurate with his punts, and no opponent outdistanced him. Bus was at all times a terror to the other team in every game in which he played. He always played a heady and dashing game. His ability of bringing down passes was uncanny. Knox expects great things of him next fall.

IGNATIUS MATKOVICEK—CAPT.-ELECT, TACKLE. Iggy, who holds the dual captaincy of the Knox team with Joe Wiley, was one of the main weapons of the Siwash eleven. Iggy played tackle and carried his 185 pounds with unusual speed. He frequently brought down men on the other side of the line with his smashing tackles. He played a remarkable game at tackle. He was fast and quick to discern opponents' plays. On offense, he always opened up gaps enough for goodly gains. Frequently, Iggy played guard on offense, principally because of his rapidity in pulling out to run interference. He has one more year of competition.

CAPTAIN BARON—BACKFIELD. Eddie was one of the most valuable men on the Knox eleven. He was a very smart football player, and played a bang-up game at quarterback all season. Eddie was probably the best open field runner on the team. He had both weight and speed, two qualities that make for an ideal ball carrier. His 175 pounds was just as effective in line-smashing as in meandering through a broken or open field. He punted with the best, tossed passes, and it was a marvel of the game to see him run back punts.

REX SCHRAUB—BACKFIELD. Rex was one of the mainstays of last fall's team. He built up his fame as a halfback and was a steady and reliable performer. Rex skirted the ends and occasionally smashed through the line for necessary gains. He possessed uncanny ability to guess opponents' plays. He was a hard tackler and was a great help on defense. Rex graduates this June and his absence will be felt on next year's football eleven.

OLIN KULL—TACKLE. Olin Kull's speed made him a most valuable tackle, for he had both weight and power which go to make a good linesman. Olen was one of the main factors in Knox's strong line as a tackle, for he was a terror to all opponents. He showed keen insight and smashing ability in breaking up plays. His tackling was clean and hard, and done mostly behind the line of scrimmage. Kull was a splendid performer on attack, and was seldom displaced by his opponents. Ole's position will be hard to fill next year for he graduates in June.

LESTER SMILEY—Guard. Last fall marked Smiley's first season as a regular on the Siwash aggregation. Les developed into a dependable guard and was a willing worker. He was always on his toes and in every play. His weight helped materially on the line, and his foes found tough opposition in him. Les was not a sensational football player but was a consistent and reliable performer. Les graduates this year and made his last year for Knox his best.

He almost gets around the end but is stopped.

DE FOREST HITCHCOCK—BACKFIELD. Hitchcock, another star sophomore on the Knox football team, developed into a wonderful halfback who showed great skill at picking a hole in the opposing lines. He performed regularly in the Siwash backfield, being at all times a hard, consistent worker. His fighting spirit and encouraging actions and words were incentives to his team-mates to scrap with him. He inspired his team-mates with confidence and fight—Hitchcock could not be stopped. His consistent plunging and all-around work gained for him an enviable reputation. He was speedy and his weight made him a valuable asset. Hitchcock has two years more to compete.

WILFRED MASSIE—END. Will Massie did not show his true worth until at the end of the season when he grabbed a pass and ran almost the length of the field to beat Monmouth, 6-0, in the final pigskin contest of the season on Thanksgiving day. Will was always there to grab off a forward pass. His skill at running the ends was one of the strong features of his playing. He was fast, a hard tackler, and always tried his best for Knox. Massie, who is a sophomore, has two more years of varsity competition.

PAUL BLOCK—GUARD. Paul, playing his first season of college varsity football competition, played a guard position all season. He weighed 180 pounds, and was a veritable wall to those who tried to break through his part of the line. His height and weight were strong factors in the line. His long reach prevented many runs which were aimed for the end. Block was especially strong at opening holes on the offense. Very little ground was ever gained through him. Paul was a sensational performer, being in every play and always doing his full share. He was especially good at bucking the line and was always at the point where he was most needed. He has two more years of participation.

ROBERT IRWIN—CENTER. Bob played his second season of varsity football. He weighed 210 pounds, his weight and strength being great barriers for his opponents. Bob was a good man to break up the opponents' plays, and was a dependable fighter. He was a terror to all opponents, so much so, in fact, that he often unnerved their passing. Bob has everything desired in a pivot. He will return again next year.

The Siwash backfield goes into action fast.

FRANK BELSLY—BACKFIELD. Belsly did not play regular in the Siwash backfield, but he was a sweet reserve player. He was inserted in several games this last fall and at all times came through with short necessary gains. Frank was always ready to go in and do his best. He was a battler at all times and a hard man to stop. Belsly always played a cool, heady game. He was a good plunger. He was one of the lightest men on the team, but he made up for it with speed and nerve. Frank, who has earned two letters in football at Knox, will return next fall for his last season.

ORA REID—TACKLE. Reid, altho not a regular performer on the eleven, played in enough football contests to earn his first varsity letter. Whenever Reid got into the game, he always played a hard, consistent game, and it was always a toss-up whether or not he should become a regular. He was always ready to go in and do his best. Reid was a hard man to stop once he got going. He had weight and power which go to make a valuable linesman, and besides, his speed made him a good tackle. He is a sophomore.

JAMES TENNERY—GUARD. Tennery, a promising sophomore, played at guard in several games this last fall. Jim, however, did not play enough to earn his varsity sweater in football, but will make a strong bid for a guard position next fall. He displayed real football ability in the times he got in. His blocking and interference was strong, while very little ground was ever gained through him. Jim was especially strong at opening holes on the offense. At all times he tried his best and played a heady game of football. Jim has two more years.

FRED MALCOLM—BACKFIELD. Freddie, a small but fast player, was frequently substituted into the games this last fall. Fred, who plays quarter, took Capt. Baron's place when the latter was not in the game, and demonstrated to Siwash rooters that he will make a strong bid for the quarterback post next fall. He had plenty of nerve, and was a valuable substitute in the backfield. He was usually good for short gains and on the defense, he could be depended upon to do his best. He has one more year of varsity participation.

The 1928 Basketball Season

Although the Knox basketball team got away to a bad early start, as a result of hard playing and good coaching, the team managed to finish the season in good standing.

In the Mid-west conference the Siwashers pulled a rating of .500 percent. In the Little Nineteen, Knox managed a standing of .800. Considering the fact that the season started in a slump manner, this standing is good. Moreover, Poole, outstanding the entire season, will be the only big loss suffered by the team next year.

Poole was easily high point man of the season. In every game Lloyd could be relied upon to do consistent shooting. In fourteen games he cornered 141 points. Second in the individual scoring column was Moak, who managed to chalk up 88 points to his credit. Kaspar was given third rating with 62. These men were followed by Block, Whitman and Captain Belsley.

The return of Ward to playing ranks in the second semester did much to aid the team's improving record. He worked well with the flashy Poole and Moak. Captain Belsley, Block, and Kaspar did valuable work during the entire season, playing consistent ball.

The team started the season a little poorly, losing to Iowa 30 to 21, and Illinois 22 to 18. Then after having downed Carthage 36 to 23, the outfit dropped a tussle to Monmouth 35 to 26 on the Monmouth floor.

On the northern trip the Siwash quint gave an upset. The weak Beloit team handed out a 23 to 13 drubbing, but the following night the tough Ripon crew was hauled into camp to the tune of 50 to 49 in one of the closest and fastest games of the year. Then a powerful team from Coe invaded and handed out a 28 to 20 loss.

But the turning point had come, and Knox stepped out to win five straight games much to the surprise of the wise dopesters of the basketball world. Augustana fell most completely before the onslaught of the revamped Knox five to the score of 32 to 24. Lawrence invaded Galesburg with a team that was supposed to have been a world beater, but the Siwash dished out a surprise win by getting on the best side of a 23 to 16 tally. Hamline sent five men to Galesburg who had been doing good work up in Minnesota competition. Knox emerged 36 to 24.

The biggest thriller of the year was the Monmouth game. Every year feeling has run high between the schools, and when the nearby school arrived for the game Founders' day, all of their hundreds of rooters felt confident that a drubbing like the one handed out earlier in the season would be the result. The game from the starting whistle was close. Both teams were feeling out the opposition, and play was fast and rough. The score see-sawed, neither outfit being able to put the game on ice. The crowd continually went wild. With one minute to go, Block caught a rebound, and sunk the shot from under the basket. The game was won. Knox emerged a few minutes later on the best side of a 28-27 count.

When Knox took Cornell 29 to 22, dopesters again had been on the wrong track. But the clever Carleton outfit broke the string of victories by dishing out a 46 to 24 defeat. In the last game of the season, Knox made amends by walloping Augustana 38 to 27.

Eight men were awarded letters. They are Captain Belsley, Poole, Block, Moak, Ward, Bednar, Kaspar and Whitman. Of these Poole and Whitman are the only graduates. Prospects for a championship season loom up formidably.

Captain Frank Belsley

Top Row: Coach Magnusen, B. Smith, C. Alford, G. Kiskaddon, C. Rhodes, Manager Pollock.
Bottom Row: T. Dempsey, Sperry, G. Gold, G. Meyers, W. Button, C. Kusenda, R. Allen, R. Glaubx.

FRANK BELSLEY, Captain

All during the season Belsley played consistent ball. His work was not spectacular, but it always could be relied upon. Belsley's abilities as captain are unquestionable, for good spirit among the team prevailed. "Abe's" position was guard, and this he fulfilled in a commendable manner, always managing to give his opponents something about which to worry. Next year "Abe" will return to help Coach Trevor build up a strong combination.

LLOYD POOL

Lloyd's last year climaxed a brilliant basketball career. Every year his uncanny shooting, clever floor work, and untiring ability have been mainstays of the varsity. Pool entered every game a marked man, for opponents knew that in him lay the main offensive strength of the Knox outfit. In every game, Pool worried the opposition by his strong defensive playing. He was proclaimed by many the best defensive forward in these parts.

CLYDE WHITMAN

In the graduation of Whitman, the varsity will suffer a loss of a valuable player. Clyde plays a very consistent game. His clear headedness, and ability to refrain from getting rattleheaded has proved a decided aid in several tussles. Whitman did his bit at the position of guard at which he always did commendable work.

EARLE WARD

The return of Moose to the lineup the second semester marked the finishing touch to Coach Trevor's new team. Beyond doubt, the fact that Ward was in the lineup brought more than one close game into a victory. Earle's main value lies in his excellent defensive work. By means of his height he can prevent many a shot from feeling out the hoop. Furthermore, his spirit and fight kept up the morals of the entire team.

Captain Frank Belsley

STERLING MOAK

Smoaky was the name Moak earned for himself. Beyond doubt Smoaky as forward had more than average ability. His work was fast, and his passing accurate. In addition, he had an eye for making the score board ring. He cornered 88 pointers during the season to take position in the high point column with only Pool as his better. Moak is another of the first string regulars who will be in suit again next year.

GEORGE KASPAR

Kaspar is the hottest and coldest player on the varsity outfit. When he gets the range to the basket, there is no stopping him from sinking two pointers from all angles of the floor. In both games against Augustana, George led the scoring, shooting baskets from all corners. Kaspar has two more years of varsity competition.

CHARLES BEDNAR

Chuck is as clever a player as dons a suit. He handles the ball with ease, and passes with uncanny accuracy. His floor work is tricky, and therefore he is a hard man to oppose. Chuck plays guard and forward positions with equal ability, understanding the principles of both positions.

PAUL BLOCK

Block possessed an ability to make counters at critical points. All fans remember the manner in which he pulled the Hamline game out of the fire, and also how he clinched the Cornell tussle by sinking a hard one when the score differed only one point with a minute to go. Paul played center and forward, and was always a good man with which to work. He will be a decided aid next year.

DEFOREST HITCHCOCK

Coming to the fore in the early part of the season as a fast and aggressive guard, Hitchcock was put out of play for several weeks by a sprained ligament in his ankle. His ability to use his weight and speed to the best advantage made itself very evident even during the comparatively short time he could play. He is a sophomore and will undoubtedly take an important part in the 1928-29 season.

The 1927 Track Season

Captain Buss Mann
1928

A characteristic Knox track team, well-balanced and consistent in performance, went through the 1927 season with almost unvarying success, to place high in both the State and Mid-West conferences. At the outset, hopes for a State championship suffered a severe blow with the loss of Roberts, star miler and holder of the State record in this event. Earlier in the year, as an added set-back, McCutchan, veteran half miler, was obliged to leave school. In spite of these losses, the team showed up extremely well in every meet.

The indoor season opened with the Illinois Relays. Here the two-mile team, composed of Layman, Hamilton, Schraub and Roberts, trotted to an easy win. A little later, a dual meet with Monmouth was held on the Knox indoor track, resulting in a score of 51-35 for Knox. Carmichael starred in winning the 100 and 220 dashes and setting a new track record for the latter event. At the C. I. A. A. meet held at Notre Dame two weeks later, Sterling Moak placed second in the high jump, and Rex Schraub placed fourth in the quarter.

A dual meet with Monmouth initiated the outdoor season. It was the most interesting and hotly contested meet seen on Willard Field for many years, and the issue was not decided until Knox won the final event, the mile relay, which gave them a 66-65 victory. At Drake, Lloyd Pool leaped to a third place in the high jump and the two mile team, composed of Hamilton, Layman, Haste and Schraub, took fourth. The other division of the team at Macomb took in the Western Illinois State Teachers College to the tune of 91-40. The next team to fall before Coach Jackson's boys was Coe, the final score being 74-57. Pool, Ward and Moak helped things along by scoring a slam in the high jump, as did Buss Mann by taking firsts in the broad jump and discus and third in the javelin. Illinois College offered no competition at all, and Knox rolled up a score of 99-32, taking first in every event.

Bottom Row: K. Elliott, C. Haste, G. Jenkins, H. Roberts, D. Carmichael, H. Taylor.

The big test came a week later at the State meet at Bradley. Knox missed taking first by $2\frac{3}{4}$ points. Schraub took first in the quarter and ran an excellent race in the half mile to take second in that event. Thompson ran a good race in the two mile and was barely nosed out of first place. Crawford and Mann had things pretty much their own way in the discus throw, taking first and second respectively. One of the surprises of the day was the mile relay. Bradley was doped to have the winning outfit, but the old Knox tradition of winning relay teams held, and Carmichael, Haste, Elliott and Schraub led the Bradley boys to the tape in 3:27.6, close to the State record.

The Mid-West Meet at Monmouth closed the season. The outstanding event of the afternoon was the quarter, which brought Schraub and Muilenberg of Cornell together. In a race which brought spectators to their feet, Schraub won by a scant yard in the record breaking time of 49.9. This was by far the fastest meet of the season, and although Knox did not win it, the outcome was a most satisfactory climax to the season.

Manager William Wolf
1928

THE 1928 SEASON

Coach Jackson is undertaking the present season with a team which is strong in every department, with the possible exception of the distance runs. With twelve letter men and a goodly number of others who are showing a lot of promise, things look good for the coming outdoor season.

At the C. I. A. A. meet at Notre Dame, Capt. Bus Mann won the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches, and Al McCutchan placed fourth in the half mile, which went in record breaking time. As was the case last year, Knox easily defeated Monmouth in an indoor dual meet, the score being $57\frac{1}{2}$ to $28\frac{1}{2}$. At the Illinois Relays, the mile team placed third. Capt. Mann and Lloyd Pool had an off day and did not place.

The outdoor season opens with the Drake Relays at Des Moines. The results of the indoor season indicate that Knox will experience another successful track year.

Captain Schraub

Cornelius Mann

Clarence Haste

Lyle Layman

Lloyd Hughes

REX SCHRAUB

Rex has been a brilliant and consistent performer in the quarter and half mile runs for four years. Capable of running the quarter under fifty seconds and the half mile under two minutes, he is anchor man on both the mile and two mile relay teams and is perhaps one of the best middle distance runners in the Middle West. He graduates this year, leaving a vacancy that is well-nigh impossible to fill.

BUSS MANN

The big Kansas boy started out in his Freshman year to do things, and he has been doing them ever since. Last year he was high point man for the season by virtue of his ability in the broad jump, discus throw, and javelin throw. This year he is captain of the team, and promises to do even better than last year, having already taken a first in the broad jump at the C. I. A. A. meet at Notre Dame.

LARRY HASTE

Haste did his bit in the half mile and mile, and could usually be depended upon to turn in good time for either one. He had a regular berth on the two mile relay team and could even run a quarter on the mile team if necessary. He is one of the distance men whose loss is felt this year.

DUTCH LAYMAN

"The Flying Dutchman" held forth in the half mile and mile runs, having a regular berth on the two mile relay team and running the mile in individual competition. While not a brilliant runner, he was very dependable and rarely failed to come up to expectations. This Spring he will run his final race for Knox College.

MARVIN HUGHES

Possessed of considerable strength and weight, Hughes was proficient in putting the shot. Throughout the course of the season last year, he gathered in a good number of points, and was one of the reasons why Knox was strong in the field events. At one time he held the indoor record for his event.

OLIN KULL

Kull likes to throw the javelin. Last year he did better than 180 feet and there is no telling how far he will fling the spear this year. Knox has not been particularly strong in this event for some time, and we are looking to Olie to set a record before he graduates.

LLOYD POOL

"Puddle" has rare ability in lifting himself over a horizontal piece of lumber, having done better than six feet on more than one occasion. He has been an outstanding performer in the high jump for the past three years, and his presence at a meet caused most of Knox's competitors to cross this event off their scoring column. This will be his last year of competition and his loss will be felt keenly.

JAMES TENNERY

Jim puts the shot, and is showing steady improvement in this event. Last spring he set a new indoor record and if he improves proportionately in the outdoor competition he will be hard to beat. Also, he has two more years to engage in this event.

Olin Kull

Lloyd Pool

James Tennery

William Crawford

Sterling Moak

WILLIAM CRAWFORD

Bill has a careless way of taking a discus and throwing it away altogether, leaving the officials to worry about finding it. He holds the Knox record for doing this. Last year someone broke his record, but Bill got hot and had it back again in a few minutes. Notwithstanding the expense of replacing lost platters, Coach Jackson is glad to have him on the team.

STERLING MOAK

As a combination high jumper, broad jumper, and pole vaulter, Moak had few equals and was hard to beat in any one of these events. In the high jump he could do very close to six feet, in the broad jump, better than twenty, and in the pole vault he not infrequently cleared over twelve feet. He has yet another year of competition.

EARLE WARD

This big boy divides his activities between the high hurdles and the high jump and is good for points in both. With a little more experience he should develop into a first class high hurdler, and he is constantly improving in the high jump. He has another year of competition.

DAN CARMICHAEL

During the indoor season, Dan devotes himself to the 100 and 220 dashes and the quarter. With the advent of the outdoor season he adds the 220 hurdles, and this year possibly, the high hurdles. Possessing a good deal of speed and strength, he will be a valuable man on this year's team.

KENNETH ELLIOTT

The quarter is Elliott's specialty. As a Freshman, he won his letter as a member of the mile relay team, and should be one of its mainstays this year. He has negotiated the distance in close to fifty-one seconds. Three more years of competition will see him doing big things.

HENRY TAYLOR

This Virginia flash started out in his Freshman year to run the dashes and was awarded the gold "K" for his efforts. Under Coach Jackson's tutelage he made considerable improvement in his form and was credited with even time in the hundred yard dash. Two more years will see this man develop into a real speed demon.

WILLIAM THOMPSON

Because of his inexhaustible endurance and strength, Bill gained the monicker of "Water-cooled." The farther he went the faster he ran. The two mile was his specialty and he is credited with a record or two in this event. Two milers are never plentiful, and we hated to lose Bill.

CLYDE HAMILTON

The half mile and mile were Kelly's specialties. He often ran them both in the same afternoon and was good for points in either one. In the spring he frequently ran on the two mile team. Kelly was a hard worker with plenty of nerve, and he is another of those distance men that we are missing this year.

Baseball

Captain Eddie Baron

The 1927 Baseball Season

Baseball got under way poorly last season. The wet weather prevented early practice to a great extent and the schedule included early games with some of the toughest teams of the season's play. Coach McFerren whipped a team into shape early, however, and the Knox men played some good baseball at times, although not consistently enough to win many of their games. Batting seemed to be the weak spot in the Knox game, as well as the lack of a dependable and strong pitcher.

At the beginning of the season Logan and Ishii seemed to be the best pitchers available. Carlin Gibbs, a sophomore and small for the position, had the catcher's job pretty well in hand and played there most of the season. Captain Klein appeared at first base most of the season and did good, dependable work in that position. Eddie Baron at second and Shorty Patterson at third with Chuck Bednar in the shortstop position completed the infield which got going in fine shape before the end of the season. The outfield jobs were somewhat more difficult to fill. Jeff Walton and Olson showed up well at first, while Skully and Holdefer also played in the first games.

In the first game of the year the strong Bradley team was met and the Hilltoppers sent Knox home with the little end of an 11 to 2 score. It seemed that the superiority of experience and practice of the Bradley players could not be overcome with any tactics. Baron drove in Knox's only scores when he poled out a three-base hit in the seventh to send Logan and Bednar home. Meeske of Bradley had his own way at the plate and in five times up gathered in a home run and two three-base hits.

Coe presented a well balanced organization in the next game and defeated Knox 7 to 3. The game might have turned out differently but for the close playing of the Kohawks and some slips on the part of the Siwash nine. In the next game played the same week the highly reputed Swedes from Augustana fell victims to the Siwash team, who cut loose in the fourth to gather in six runs and sew up the game. Spahr of Augustana was the cause of all their trouble when he allowed too many hits in the same inning.

In the game with Illinois College played on Willard Field the score was 9 to 3 for the southern players. Both teams did their best to give the game away but Knox had the edge in the try. Both teams totalled nine errors at the end of the nine innings, but the Illinois college team managed to collect nine runs. Lake Forrest, which boasted a ball team with a high reputation, happened to get mixed up with a rally of the Siwash ball players and were defeated 6 to 1. The Knox team played an entirely superior brand of ball to win, holding the conquerors of Bradley to one run in the sixth inning. Captain Klein at first, Logan in the box, Gibbs at the home plate and Walton at third did exceptional work in this game.

Faced by the cleverest pitcher of the whole season, the Siwash team was shut out by Carleton 6 to 0. Addington, the Carleton pitcher, fanned sixteen Knox men and allowed only five hits. Logan was hit all of twelve times and a rally started in the seventh did not get going at all. Lake Forest came back in the second game and shut out the Siwash outfit by almost the same score as they had been beaten before. Ishii held them close until the sixth inning, and put on a pretty duel with Mayer of the Red Devils, but had to be replaced on the mound by Logan after he filled the bases in the sixth.

McFerren's men tightened up on their play in the next game to hold the strong North Central College team to a 4 to 2 count. Although the Siwashers went down before the air-tight playing of the Naperville team, they played good ball. Baron made his first appearance on the mound and accounted for himself in fine shape, although Knox was outthit 11 to 7. Bradley played on Willard Field next and handed out a 17 to 3 defeat to the Knox team. The Siwash players did not seem to be able to hit Thompson for anything, while the Hilltop team drove Logan off the mound in the fourth and then proceeded to hit Ishii for seven scores more. In the second game with Augustana they got the larger part of a 7 to 6 score. The main difficulty came in the ninth when Olson doubled and scored two ahead of him. Ishii pitched good ball for six innings and was then replaced by Logan on the mound. Whitman got a home run in the eighth with no one on bases, while Walton in five times up got three singles and a double.

A home run by Bednar with two on bases gave Knox a good start in the scoring against Coe in the next game which was played at Cedar Rapids, but although the Siwash team got thirteen hits, they could get together only six runs as compared with nine for Coe. It was Knox's best day at bat during the season. The last two games of the season were against Monmouth, resulting in losses for Knox of 2 to 0 and 9 to 3. The first game played at Monmouth was a fine demonstration of pitching on the part of Ishii and the Monmouth pitcher. The break came in the seventh on a bad catch which allowed Mann to come home for Monmouth. In the second game played on Willard Field the Monmouth team got away for some early scoring which could not be overcome by the Siwash players. The men who received letters for their work during the season are Captain Ray Klein, Captain-elect Eddie Baron, Charles Bednar, Carlin Gibbs, Morris Holdefer, Clyde Ishii, Leonard Logan, Wayne Patterson, Jeff Walton and Clyde Whitman.

With the approach of the baseball season of 1928, Coach Morton Armstrong, captain of the Knox team in 1926 and one of the best pitchers turned out in this part of the country, took over the control of the team. Captain Klein is the only one missing from last year's team, and with the large squad available this spring there is a possibility for a great baseball season. Coach Armstrong's southpaw pitching has been investigated by the Cubs and not found wanting. He played exceptional ball with the Palestine club in Texas, batting .412 and fielding perfectly during the 1927 season. His pitching percentage of .571 was the best of any left-hander in the league. Under the leadership of captain Baron and the coaching of Armstrong the prospects are bright, to say the least.

Knox got away to a good start in defeating Western at Macomb by a score of 9 to 5 and four days later beat Coe on Willard Field 7 to 5. Coe had out-run Monmouth the day before. Bradley broke into the season with an 18 to 11 defeat for the Siwashers and two days later Lake Forest beat Knox 9 to 5. But the season is yet young.

Minor Sports

Tennis

Mead Messick won the singles championship of the Little Nineteen conference and with Ted Diemer formed a doubles team defeated only in the finals of the tourney, which was held at Bloomington a week after school was dismissed in 1927. This victory for the Siwash men followed a successful season under the coaching of Professor Carl W. Strow. Jack Latimer and Bert Gray supported Messick and Diemer, and with all four back in school this year the prospects for another good season are bright indeed.

After getting away to a hopeful start in a dual meet with Coe early in the season, a schedule of duals and tournaments was undertaken. Bradley Tech. was defeated on their own Hilltop in a dual meet early in May. In the Little Nineteen sectional tournament held on the Knox courts later in the month, the Knox men won over all other competition from the schools represented. The colleges in this section were Monmouth, Carthage, Augustana, and Western State Teachers College of Macomb. Messick won the singles, thus representing this section in the final tourney. The Messick and Diemer doubles combination won the same honors, and the victories in the final state meet at Bloomington were a fitting conclusion to a successful season.

Golf

Siwash golfers, although receiving little attention and support from the student body, had a short and successful season in 1927. Led by Jack Latimer, state champion in 1926, the team composed of Latimer, Kelly and Raymond won the team play in the Little Nineteen conference matches held in Peoria in May of 1927. Latimer also annexed for the second time his title of state champion. His long experience and ability to turn in consistently a low score make him invaluable to the future of golf at Knox. Both Kelly and Latimer are in school this year and with the support and help of other candidates for the team there is every possibility of repeating the victories of the past two seasons.

The under-development of golf as a minor sport at Knox is due primarily to the lack of practice facilities. Links are not close enough at hand to encourage those who are not already highly interested in the game, and it is from that class of student that the support for the varsity team must be drawn. The attention drawn to the major sports of baseball and track also detracts from the support of golf. Conditions improve yearly, however, and especially with the talent in school at the present time, golf has much to look forward to.

Swimming

The Knox college swimming team enjoyed a short and more or less successful season in 1928. Although swimming is not a regularly established sport because of the lack of facilities, there seems to be some outstanding talent in the student body along aquatic lines. Following the intramural swimming meet Coach Jackson got together three men, Benton Bull, Francis Stewart, and Earle Ward who had starred in that meet and sent them to the second annual Little Nineteen swimming meet at St. Viator college.

This three man team, of whom one became ill and was unable to compete, managed to take 14 points for third place in the meet. Benton Bull was the mainstay of the Knox pair, taking firsts in the 100 and 220 yard free style swims and placing third in the fancy diving. Stewart got a third in the breast stroke, which is his specialty. Illinois Wesleyan won the meet while St. Viator took second honors. Swimming is rapidly becoming a more important sport at Knox and in the Little Nineteen and will soon take its place along with Tennis and Golf as recognized minor sports.

Cross Country

Cross-country running has a small but enthusiastic support among Knox athletes, but the enthusiasm alone was not enough to win over Bradley Polytechnic in the annual run. Lack of material, attention of the coaching staff and sufficiently organized training, as well as the ability of the Bradley team, accounted for the Knox defeat. Perry of Bradley led seven of his mates across the finish in 16:29.6. Five men on each team were counted in scoring, which gave the Hilltoppers a 40 to 15 victory. The Knox team in the order of their finishing was: Sam Kelly, Ray Arnold, Harper Andrews, Harold Lang, Sam Bolin and George Foster.

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS

To the Board of Intramural Managers goes a large share of the credit for the interest and rivalry which attaches to intramural athletics. Under the efficient direction of Dick Hurburgh, Intramural Manager, the various branches of competition have been conducted in a most creditable manner. With a live, active manager representing each organization, the interest this year has been keener than ever before. The intramural program, instituted by Coach E. R. Jackson in 1924, has an important place in the list of Knox activities, furnishing an outlet for the athletic energies of those who lack the time or ability to take part in varsity athletics.

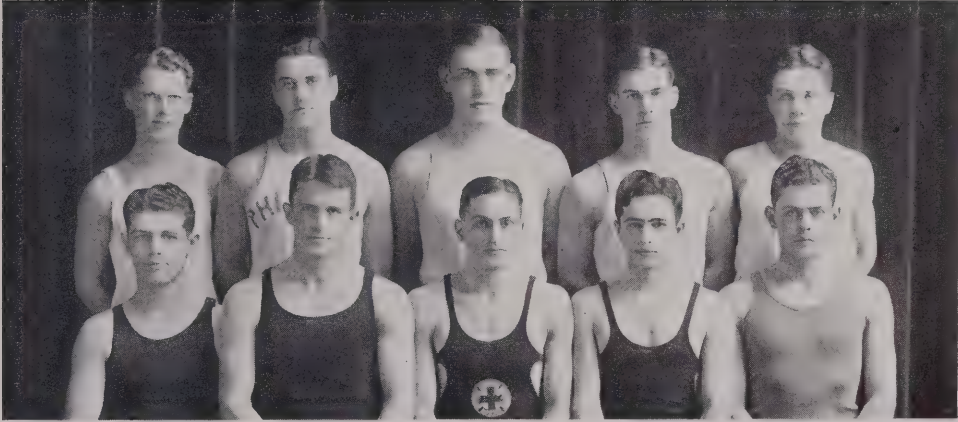

TRACK

A well balanced Beta track team which placed high in every event except the shot put, winning five firsts and tying for two others, ran up $44\frac{1}{3}$ points to win the Organization Track Meet, held on Thursday, Feb. 16th, 1928. The Phi Deltis were a close second with $37\frac{1}{3}$ points.

Watson, Beta Freshman, was high point man, with firsts in the pole vault, high jump, and broad jump. Sherman and Murphy were outstanding performers for the Phi Delt. Three records were broken during the afternoon.

Final results were: Betas, 44-1/3; Phi Delt, 37-1/3; Union, 18; Sig Kaps, 8; Lambda Chis, 5; Alpha Thetas, 5; Phi Gams, 3; Tekes 2.

SWIMMING

The Phi Delt won the Swimming meet without any undue disturbance of the dope bucket. Bull, Phi Delt sophomore, ran true to form in capturing firsts in the 40 yd. Dash, 220 yd. Dash, and Fancy Diving, besides helping his team materially in the 160 yard Relay. Beta Theta Pi came in second with 20 points, giving the Phi Delt a closer race than was expected.

Final standings were as follows; Phi Delt, 30; Beta, 20; Phi Gam, 10; Lambda Chi, 10; Teke, 8; Union Club, 7; Alpha Theta Alpha, 4; Union Club, 0.

BASKETBALL

Intramural basketball excites more intense rivalry, perhaps, than any other branch of competition. Beta Theta Pi headed the league this year, playing through the entire season without losing a game. The final game between the Phi Delts and Betas was, as usual, the high point of the season, the Betas winning by a score of 15 to 11. Carmichael, Mann, Watson and Baron starred for the winners throughout the season. The Sig Kaps were second in the league with 25 points. Olson was particularly outstanding for this team.

Final Standings: Betas, 35; Sig Kaps, 25; Union, 20; Phi Delts, 15; Lambda Chis, 15; Alpha Thetas, 15; Teke, 10; Phi Gam, 5.

HORSESHOES

Horseshoes opened the season of intramural competition, the games starting the first week in October and continuing until the latter part of November. The Lambda Chis proved themselves the most proficient in this sport, topping the field with 41 points. Sterling Moak accounted for a large share of the points for the winners. The Sig Kaps were second with 31 points, due largely to the efforts of Tunnicliffe and Velde.

Final results of the season were: Lambda Chis, 41; Sig Kaps, 31; Tekes, 21; Union, 20; Alpha Thetas, 15; Betas, 15; Phi Delts, 13; Phi Gams, 10.

KITTENBALL—1927

The final branch of intramural competition last year was won by Phi Gamma Delta. Most of the games were closely contested and no team in the league held a decided superiority. Some of the outstanding players were Burton for the Phi Gams, Diemer and Gee for the Tekes, Pankey and Boone for the Betas and Latimer and Hittle for the Phi Delts. Gee, of the Tekes, accomplished an unusual feat when he pitched a no-hit game, the first time that this has been done at Knox.

CROSS COUNTRY

Beta Theta Pi won the cross country run held last November with 40 points, the Phi Delts coming in for a close second with 38 points. Arnold, Beta, won the race in 17:28.4, which was good time, considering the adverse weather conditions.

The first eight men to finish were: Arnold (Beta), Kelly (Union), Layman (Teke), Rhodes (Teke), Sherman (Phi Delt), Draper (Phi Delt), Bolin (A. T. A.), McCutchan (Phi Delt).

Team scores were: Beta, 40; Phi Delt, 38; Teke, 37; A. T. A., 27¼; Phi Gam, 22½; Lambda Chi, 18¾; Sig Kap, 17¾. The Union Club failed to finish five men.

Top Row: Ray Arnold, Harold Lang.
Bottom Row: Harper Andrews, Kenneth Elliott, Jack Hayward.

Women's Athletics

Women's Athletics

Miss Matilda Shelby
Director of Women's Athletics

Women's Athletics at Knox are organized on the basis of intramural, class and individual competition. They are sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association and coached by Miss Mathilda Shelby, head of the Physical Education Department for Women.

In the fall, hockey is the main sport, in winter, volley ball and basketball, and in the spring, baseball and tennis. Swimming is an all year sport, and several girls passed their life saving tests under Judith Shaefer in the Galesburg High School pool. Archery, rifle shooting and track also rank among the more important activities.

These various activities are managed by heads of sports, girls appointed by W. A. A. to schedule games and keep track of the players and teams. These heads are as follows: hockey, Marguerite Bechtold; archery, Alphild Anderson; rifle, Judith Shaefer; basketball, Frances Andrews; volley ball and track, Gladys McClenahan; baseball, Lois Harris; tennis, Mary Voorhees; riding, Lorraine Smith; horseshoes, Irma Craig; bicycle, Dorothy Roe; hiking, Myra Mallin; rowing, Barbara Sinclair; health, Roma Shively; pep leader, Alice Kennedy; finance, Rachel Bohannon.

These officials with the officers of W. A. A. constitute the advisory board of that organization. The officers are: President, Elizabeth Gamble; Vice-President, Judith Shaefer; Secretary, Alice Kennedy; Treasurer, Ellen Gould. The membership is composed of about seventy girls who have earned at least 200 points in their athletics.

Points are awarded to members of teams, subs and those who pass certain requirements in a certain sport. Each girl earning 1000 points is entitled to a white sweater with a purple "K." Four girls had received this honor by the first of March. These were Irma Craig, Ellen Gould, Myra Mallin, and Ruth Thompson.

This organization has been much more active the last two years than ever before. There has been some keen competition in the intramural games; the membership has increased considerably, and two hours are devoted each day to coaching those girls who are interested in making teams. Alice Kennedy was sent last year as a delegate to the national convention at Ithaca, New York, and brought back a most interesting report. The constitution of W. A. A. was entirely revised this year to meet the recent demands the expansion of W. A. A. required.

Mary Voorhees was chosen last spring as the best all-round star athlete. This honor was conferred because of both her proficiency in many sports and her good sportsmanship.

Top Row: Myra Mallin, Judith Shafer, Marguerite Bechtold.

Intramural Season

The school year, 1927-1928 is the second year in which the Girls' Intramural program has been carried out. Hockey, Basketball, and Baseball, the three major sports, comprise the source of competition in the intramural season. This year the minor sports, archery, horseshoes, and track were excluded from the curriculum of intramural sports. The organizations competing in intramurals and their managers are:

Pi Beta Phi.....	Frances Andrews
Delta Delta Delta.....	Margaret Christy
Zeta Pi.....	Clara Ortman
Sigma Alpha Iota.....	Doris Cox
Non-sorority	Ellen Gould
Phi Mu.....	Mary Voorhees

In each sport, each organization plays every other organization making ten games in a single sport. Sigma Alpha Iota is not scheduled in every sport, but its members have arranged that they may enter any single sport in which they desire to compete. By this agreement, however, S. A. I. has eliminated its chances of winning the championship cup.

Last year, Mr. Wetherbee donated a silver cup, which is to be awarded each year to the organization holding the highest number of points. The winning organization of any game receives five points. If one organization is the winner of the cup for two successive years, it automatically becomes the owner of the cup. In 1927 non-sorority received the honor of winning the cup.

Intramurals exist for the purpose of putting more girls into athletics. Also, by means of intramurals, an interest in athletics is created in the hearts of all members of the competing organizations.

Since Girls' Intramurals are a new operation, perfection in their workings has by no means yet been attained, but it is hoped that every year a deeper enthusiasm for Girls' Intramurals will exist, thereby tending more to the perfection of that phase of girls' athletics. Darlene Johnson as general manager, and Gladys McClenahan as assistant manager, together with the aid of Miss Shelby have contributed skill in the management of this year's intramural season.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

Phi Mu won the girls' intramural basketball tournament held the last week in February. Five organizations competed in a round robin of games, each playing four. Competition ran high and the games brought out some good basketball playing on the part of the girls on the various teams. This is the second year of girls' intramural basketball and the teams are rapidly becoming more highly organized and trained. The Phi Mu team won the tournament with a record of four wins and no defeats. The Pi Phi team and the Tri Delt team took second honors with two defeats and two wins apiece.

CLASS BASKETBALL

The Sophomores, having defeated the Freshmen, Juniors and Seniors, were the champions of the Girls' Class Basketball season. The standing of the other classes was Juniors, Freshmen and Seniors, second, third and fourth, respectively.

As a result of the class games the most efficient players were chosen members of two varsity teams, which are:

INTRAMURAL HOCKEY

Non-sorority was the victorious team of every intramural hockey game in which it entered. The team won with a total of twenty points. The players who won the championship were Darlene Johnson, Ellen Goold, Elizabeth Sterenberg, Alphild Anderson, Rachel Bohannon, Eva Dell Johnson, Marguerite Bechtold, Elizabeth Gamble, Roma Shively, Ruth Campbell, Irene Steiner, Sara Perry, Mary Chamberlain, Katherine Bates and Louise Engstrand.

A total of ten games was played by the competitors, Delta Delta Delta, Non-Sorority, Zeta Pi, Phi Mu, and Pi Beta Phi.

Favorable weather during the intramural hockey season, and enthusiasm for that sport are the causes for the exciting games played last fall on the hockey field.

Marguerite Bechtold was intramural hockey manager.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

With the approach of spring many girls felt the urge to play tennis if we can judge by the season of 1927. More interest than usual was shown by the girls out to practice. On account of bad weather the elimination tournament was held in the gymnasium. About twenty girls participated. The winner of this tournament was Mary Voorhees and the next in order of elimination were Myra Mallin, Helen Touzalin, and Roma Shively.

Myra Mallin and Helen Touzalin made up the doubles team, as there was no regular doubles tournament, and Roma Shively acted as alternate. Knox entered the tournament at Decatur with five other schools, Eureka, Illinois Woman's College, Shurtleff, Wheaton and Augustana. Mary Voorhees, the singles player, defeated Eureka and Shurtleff and in the finals was beaten by the Wheaton player. The doubles team lost their first game to Shurtleff.

If you want a job done well today,
"Do it yourself," the sages say;
I say, "Ask Elizabeth," that will work better
She'll get it done if you'll only let her.

GERTRUDE SHERMAN Knoxville

On the piano Gertrude can wonders do,
She sings in the choir and in Glee Club too.
Her hair is red, we'll have to confess it—
But from her temper, you'd never guess
it.

BEQUEITH McMASTER Altona

Silence is virtue, I have been told—
If so, Bequeith's worth her weight in gold.
She has little to say, your secrets she'll keep,
We believe her thoughts must be many and deep.

ELEANOR WILSON Fairview

The organ and piano Eleanor does play,
She works very hard, makes high grades
each day.
When Pi Kappa Lambda is chosen next year,
Eleanor's name on the list will probably appear.

MARGARET YOUNG

London Mills

Margaret just came to Knox this year,
We hope she'll like us and stay right here.
She has her good times and works hard too—
And girls like her are all too few.

The Union Club

Since its founding in 1923, the Union club has grown rather rapidly in size, activities and prestige. The Union club was organized originally with the intent to aid non-fraternity men in campus activities and develop in them latent abilities not reached in any other manner.

For several semesters the Union club has stood first above all men's organizations in scholastic average; it has lost the intramural championship several times by only a very narrow margin and has taken its place creditably on the social calendar of the school.

Predicated on the belief that those who are temporarily or permanently not affiliated with fraternities can advance their interests successfully through mutual co-operation and active intervention for their fellows, the club has prospered and can boast for its members and ex-members many positions of prominence about the college. Likewise all endeavors which receive the club's attention are performed with an enthusiastic zeal that is largely augmented by a preconstitutional feeling of unity.

The Student Council is a representative legislative body of the student body of the college. It is the official mouthpiece of the students and in that capacity acts as the medium between the students and the administrative committee of the faculty. This council controls practically all the extra-curricular activities of the student body. All college functions are under its supervision and all student elections and student publications are regulated by it. By means of the student activities fees the council subsidizes the publications and the college debates.

Last year the membership clause in the constitution was changed. According to the new plan twenty-one members are elected by student vote by a system of proportional representation. The term of office is one year, with the officers for the next year elected in the spring and carried over. Every organization which can furnish twenty-six votes can elect a member, and provision is made so that matters of policy may be controlled by the leading party in the assembly.

The Women's Self-Government Association is an organization which includes all women students of the college. It is governed by an Executive Board which is chosen by the proportional representation plan.

With the exception of those things which fall directly under faculty administration, W. S. G. A. has full legislative, judicial and executive power over matters which pertain to the student life of all women of the college. Also a committee, Alice Saar, Dorothy Day, Pat Foley and Maurine Smith, held the sixth annual Christmas Prom.

By means of the "Big Sister" movement, by meetings and especially by individual contacts the Knox Y. W. C. A. has in a large measure achieved its goal of bringing together the women of the college in a spirit of Christian love and fellowship. As a new feature this year the Y. W. C. A. has collaborated with other campus organizations in sponsoring monthly teas to secure closer association for all college women. Discussion groups have been formed where campus problems and those of a wider interest were treated. Besides these activities the Y. W. C. A. has contributed to the charitable work of the Galesburg Free Kindergarten, has given financial support to the national Y. W. C. A. and to the Student Friendship fund, has generously donated to the American Foreign missions and has conducted monthly devotional services.

This year has been an enjoyable and interesting one in the history of the circle. Appreciation of French customs and culture has been forwarded through special reports and book reviews and a better understanding of spoken French has been encouraged in conversation and games and plays. Special use of first hand experiences in France by members of the group has formed a nucleus for the programs.

In the Homecoming Parade, the French club took first honors for the organization floats, with a representation of a Paris night club.

The Ladies' Mutual Improvement Society is an organization which has existed for many years on the campus. Its purpose at the beginning as now, has been to secure as speakers at the meetings, personages of wide experience from the business and professional world who will talk and give advice on vocational subjects, and subjects of general interest.

During the year, plays were presented by members and several times girls took part in debates. Book reviews have been given and several meetings were devoted to the reading and study of modern poetry. Music rendered both by the girls themselves and by outsiders has also been the topic of several meetings. Each year the organization sponsors a picnic at which time the Regatta takes place, winners of which are awarded fitting prizes.

The Board of Trade

President	FRANK WILLIS
Director	CORNELIUS MANN
Director	LYLE LAYMAN
Director	WESLEY GEE

The Board of Trade is the organization of students majoring in economics. Meetings are held every month, usually dinner meetings at the Galesburg Club, to discuss business problems and other matters of economic interest. Speakers of repute in special fields of economics are secured by the officers to appear before the club at their meetings. Professors James Campbell and R. E. Curtis have co-operated with the officers of the Board of Trade in this work especially.

The meetings this year have been held regularly and the programs have been interesting and varied. The value of the discussions and the speeches is unquestionable, and the work of this organization is especially beneficial to those who expect to continue in the business world after graduation.

Men's Debate

During the debating season of 1928 the open forum, no decision type of debate, again proved popular and interesting among the students. This type of argument is held under the leadership and coaching of Professor Warren Choate Shaw, the originator and chief advocate of the system. The debate squad was chosen by Professor Shaw from a large number of aspirants early in the year and work on the question was begun. Just after the Christmas holidays the team was chosen from the members of the squad in competition. The members of the squad were: John Adams, Harper Andrews, Ray Campbell, James Carlson, Charles Draper, Ralph Foster, Louis Gard, Jack Hayward, Baird Helfrich, John Mayor, Robert Murphy and Ralph Sieben.

The first debate was held in the Seymour hall dining room with a team from the University of Michigan as the opponents. The debate was well attended, well presented and well argued, and the audience took a very active part in the open forum. Then both negative and affirmative teams from the Universities of Illinois and Northwestern were met before various organizations in the city. The Kiwanis club heard one debate, while the Lutheran church sponsored another of the scheduled contests.

Women's Debate

The two women's debate teams this year are composed of two Seniors, two Juniors, one Sophomore, and one Freshman. On February 19, the affirmative team debated the Iowa University negative team at Seymour hall and on February 16, the negative team debated the Iowa University affirmative team at the Women's Business and Professional club. Open Forum is the type of procedure of the debate in which a free and open discussion takes place at the conclusion of the speeches and rebuttals of the speakers. Members of the teams must have a very thorough knowledge of their subject as they are liable to be called upon at any time to answer questions which occur to the audience.

The method employed by Professor Shaw in the choice of speakers consists in competitive work between members of a squad of twelve chosen by tryout from among those who are taking or have taken the Debate course, Public Speaking 3, 4. The squad is then divided into negative and affirmative sides and after several weeks of concentrated work, six of the twelve are chosen by tryout for the team. Women in the squad receive two hours of credit besides much valuable experience in public speaking.

There is much interest in debate among Knox women as is shown by the number who tried out for the teams. Especially is this so of the freshman women this year who had two members on the squad of twelve and one on the final team.

The Knox Players' Club

With the completion of the new Knox theater in Alumni hall, dramatics entered a new era in its career at Knox. The Dramatic club, as it was called way back when it was first organized in the early '90's, has always thriven and grown stronger, but never until March 31, 1928, did the players entertain in their own theater of the spacious and complete character of this new playhouse. The change from the old hall is nothing short of miraculous.

The expansion of Knox dramatics in this manner opens many new opportunities. The greatest advantage is the room for technical stage work. The theater has a fully equipped stage, with ample switchboard space for development of stage lighting effects, and a stage of large enough size to allow a good deal of freedom in scenic work. The room off-stage is sufficient to allow scene painting and building. The ample dressing rooms and property rooms insure plenty of room for development in the next few years.

Related to this physical expansion of the club is the plan for extensive enlargement of the Players' Club organization, with specialized departments for technical work. Already this plan is underway and next year will see an efficiently organized technical staff to work on each dramatic production of the club. Tryouts were held last fall as usual and nine members were accepted. This spring during the work in getting into the new theater tryouts for technical staff positions were held and several more members were taken into the club.

Professor Menser and Ray Kelly are largely responsible for the work of the club this year. The ability of Professor Menser as a director of the plays is the guiding light of Knox dramatics, and Ray Kelly as president of the Players' Club and as stage manager for the plays this year has done excellent work. "The Patsy," by Barry Conner was the first Players' Club production of the year, and was given on Dad's Day at the Plaza. Kathryn Maher and Wade Arnold took the leads, supported by Dorothy Rice, Helen Strubhar, James Switzer, Ray Kelly, Pat Foley, Lester Smiley, and Sterling Moak. This play was given in Kewanee, Peoria and Chicago.

At the opening of the new theater "The Tailor Made Man," by Harry James Smith was given. Wade Arnold played the lead. Supporting him was an unusually large cast of thirty-three. Ray Kelly, Lester Smiley, Dorothy Rice, Clara Ortman and Kathryn Maher were outstanding in their parts. Although the plays given so far this year do not match in the manuscript the quality of former years, the acting has been as near perfect and enjoyable as ever. The program for the last part of this year includes four or five more plays, and in the future the club will be able to produce a play at more frequent intervals and with greater ease.

The Knox Student

Dorothy Parmenter
Editor

Handicapped by the continued ban on journalism courses, the Knox Student of 1927-1928 has endeavored to maintain its former standards of good writing and good editing, with a staff on the whole inexperienced and unversed in the fundamentals of news-writing. Its editor and business manager were elected for the first time under the recently established plan of the Knox Board of Publications, which aims to eliminate politics from such elections. Dorothy Parmenter, the associate editor of last year's Student, was elected editor and James Witte, who had served on the business staff for several years, was named business manager.

The annual try-outs, held for the editorial staff from Sept. 28 to November 9, witnessed the initial appearance of 104 prospective journalists, undoubtedly the largest number ever competing for positions on the staff. This large number, however, soon dwindled, leaving thirty still in the field at the end of the six weeks. Of this number nine were chosen to positions on the staff by the board of judges, comprising the editor, President Albert Britt, and Dean William Simonds. Selections were made on the basis of the number of inches printed and on the quality of the work.

The size of the Student this year was increased from eight to ten pages, some of the issues numbering twelve and most of them ten pages. This has given the editor an opportunity to print news outside the college, as well as cover the usual campus events. An effort has been made to develop from the staff several feature writers, who would not be concerned with the gathering of news, but the presentation of some novel or interesting feature in the news itself. This venture has met with a fair degree of success and has done much to liven the news-pages of the Student. An unusually large use has been made of stories from other colleges and news events of the college world which cannot fail to interest the college student. A notable feature of this year's Student has been the introduction of a literary column, the "Stronghold," under the editorship of a member of the staff. In this column every week, interesting reviews of recent books and discussions of the present day trend of literature help the busy college student to keep up his interest in the field of culture.

In her editorial policy, as in her news policy, the editor has tried to venture somewhat beyond the limits of the Knox college campus into the field of national college and political events. Recognizing the problems on our own campus which need discussion and solution, an attempt has also been made to inform Knox students of movements and events which are of importance and interest to every thinking student.

Under the capable managership of James Witte it has been possible to increase the number of pages and to put out several large editions. Witte's work in securing advertising has been so effective that the Knox Student promises to be an unusual financial success, to the benefit of the Student Council as well as the editor and manager.

James G. Witte
Business Manager

Although Knox will never be able to support any paper larger than a weekly, in all likelihood, it is hoped that the future will see the reinstatement of journalism courses, thereby giving the Student the immeasurable advantage of trained writers and the invaluable aid and sponsorship of a college department.

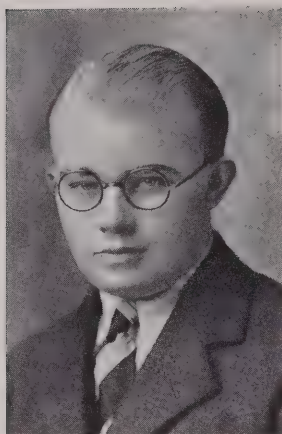

At the present the embryo journalist at Knox must be content to study along broadly cultural lines, which in the final analysis is probably the basis for the best journalism. A writer must know certainly the field in which he is writing, and as a background a great deal more is essential to the clearest and most accurate expression.

Elections by the Knox Board of Publications have resulted in the appointment of Leslie Dieterich as business manager of the Knox Student and Harper Andrews as editor for the year 1928-29. There will probably be no radical changes in the policies of the paper for the coming year because of the changes in the staff.

The 1929 Gale

Leslie Dieterich
Business Manager

Through the medium of pictures and type, the 1929 GALE has attempted to permanently record the events of the school year of 1927-28 on and about the campus of Knox College. This vast amount of material in the form of names and photographs and descriptions of various kinds has been assembled in the most pleasing and interesting manner that we of the editorial staff could devise. From the ex libris on the front fly leaf to the last name in the index we have tried to tell accurately the story of Knox during the past year. We desired to include as much material as possible in the simplest manner, with the idea that simplicity is the first essential of beauty. What color and design there is printed in this book is not for the purpose of detracting your attention from the subject matter of the book, but only to emphasize certain conceptions of college life at Knox, and to make the book different from its predecessors and its successors.

The editor and business manager were elected by the Board of Publications in the spring of 1927. The engraving contract was signed with the Burger Engraving Company, recently the Burger-Baird Engraving Company. The book was printed by the Wagoner Printing Company, which has printed Knox yearbooks for many years past. The Harrison and Clay Studios did the photographic work in connection with the publication of the GALE. The students of the college, chosen as members of the staff, did a large share of the writing and compiling of lists of names which is necessary to a book of this kind. The student body as a whole, the upper classes, and the members of the various organizations on the campus gave their co-operation when it was asked. The 1929 GALE is the product of the combined efforts of all these parties.

Most of the art work in the GALE has been done by students at Knox. The sketches of doors of Knox buildings which form a background for the scenic section views were done by Horace Moses. Don Eastin, ex-'29, had charge of the division pages of the book, and made the drawings and planned the colors. Walter Schmidt is the artist who drew the sketches which appear on the subdivision pages throughout the book.

The business manager cannot be given too much credit for his part of the work. His close and careful attention to the work, and his co-operation with the editor are in a great part responsible for the publishing of the book. The financial policy of the 1929 GALE has been to maintain the quality and size of the book, but to cut down on the budgeted income, and that has been achieved. Early advance sales and other measures have enabled the business manager to take advantage of all discounts, and co-operation with the editor has brought the saving from this factor to a maximum.

In the editorial work the editor has tried to give unbiased records of organizations and of activities. At the same time the highest possible standard of accuracy has been maintained, both in the facts and in the presentation of the facts. In the mechanical arrangement of the book a regular order and division of the material was carried out. Distinct divisions and a complete index of names should make the book easily useable as a record of the year's activities, organizations and students.

Although there is no official faculty advisor for the GALE, Dr. Elder of the English department gave the editor valuable assistance in many instances, which was greatly appreciated. Credit should also be given to the college administration for their co-operation in both the editorial work and the business management of the GALE.

Finally, the editor and business manager wish to thank the college for the honor, the trust, and the co-operation associated with publishing a yearbook.

Lorraine Smith and Herbert Hart were elected editor and business manager, respectively, of the 1930 GALE by the Knox Board of Publications in the annual election this spring. They took over the work on the next yearbook early, a great advantage.

The purpose of the Whiting Hall Council is to establish a spirit of friendship and loyalty among the residents of Whiting Hall, and to promote a feeling of individual responsibility to help in securing a better enforcement of the rules and regulations over matters under their jurisdiction.

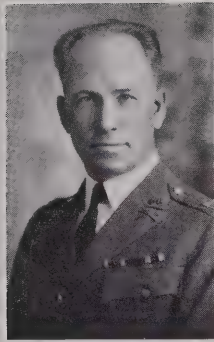

The council has been very active this year and has fostered numerous seasonable parties and an open house at Homecoming. Wednesday night of each week there is open house at Whiting Hall. Some members of the faculty are guests for dinner and the residents of the Hall are at home to their friends for an hour after dinner.

The Knox R. O. T. C.

More than ever the Knox unit of the R. O. T. C. has assumed an important part in the educational system of Knox College. Under the leadership of Captains George R. Hedge and Captain H. B. Wheeler, the unit has developed a strong organization. This year there were 127 men enrolled in the department, including the basic, second, third and fourth year courses. Three companies of two platoons each are maintained. The highest rank obtainable by a cadet officer is that of major. Three captaincies are filled by appointment by Captains Hedge and Wheeler.

The work of the first year in Military Science includes classwork on the theory of military courtesies, personal hygiene, first aid, the school of the soldier, the squad, the platoon and the company. Work in rifle marksmanship and physical training is also taken up. Second year courses in the R. O. T. C. consist of a study of infantry weapons, and also of the automatic rifle, musketry, scouting and patrolling, interior guard duty and more physical training. In the work with the automatic rifle the details of the mechanism are studied along with the technical facts concerning rifle fire of the soldier individually and in the organizations in which he functions.

In the junior year a detailed study is made of military map making, military field engineering and the machine gun. In the work with military maps actual practice in sketching the maps is undertaken by the cadets. Military field engineering includes a study of defensive tactics, field fortifications and the building of trenches and obstacles. The fourth year includes work with the trench mortar and the one pounder of 37 mm. gun, in theory and in field work. Also a thorough study is made of military history, law, and tactics. Tactics are given especially detailed treatment through the use of the sand table and problems. During the entire course instruction is given in command and leadership of troops and in the administration of a military organization.

At the six weeks summer camp, which each advanced student is required to attend, practical use is made of the theory taught in the classes. Marksmanship and other field work are practiced.

Upon the completion of the four-year course the student receives a reserve commission of Second lieutenant in the regular army. During the course the cadets purchase for a small price a tailor-made uniform which they are allowed to keep upon graduation.

The general aims of the R. O. T. C. are to instill discipline of mind and body and to create a condition of preparedness, although at the same time teaching that war must be avoided. Captain Hedge is an officer of wide experience and training and well able to carry on this work. He has seen service in Mexico, France and Germany. He received training in the infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia. This year is the last year of service in the Knox unit for Captain Hedge. Captain Wheeler will take command of the post next year, while Lieutenant Riley F. Ennis will take up the work of Captain Wheeler. Lieutenant Ennis is a recent graduate of the Fort Benning Infantry School.

Captain Wheeler, the second in command this year, is also a graduate of the Fort Benning School, Sergeant Cole took over the work with the basic courses this year.

In connection with the R. O. T. C. work a rifle team was organized this year. Since there was no previous organization for marksmanship, the results were not as great as is expected in the future. During the winter season, however, Knox entered in several matches. The most important of these is the Corps area match shot against the other units in this corps area, in which Knox had to contend with established organizations at the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin among others. At the end of the season Carlin Gibbs was elected as captain of next year's team, and plans are already under way to get the work started early and to develop more material from which to select a team. Victor Charles, Van Peters, Richard Schneider, Sterling Moak, Robert Adams, Gerald Smith, William O'Hara, Ellsworth Dare, Harper Andrews and Fred Burgland were the men on the team this year.

According to the custom of the Knox unit, elections were held early in the year to choose from the co-eds of the school four sponsors. As a result of this election Patricia Foley was the battalion sponsor, while Judith Shafer, Jean Hedge, and Janet Craig were elected as sopponsors for each of the three companies.

SATIRE

Collegians are prone to err during their school days at Knox. Satirical treatment of some errors may tend to bring them forward into the limelight, possibly causing them to wither and disappear. To tear down is to make room to build.

EUGENE FIELD

[Through the courtesy of the Galesburg Public Library the feature editor of the GALE has been able to procure a number of booklets containing humorous stories, poems, and paragraphs written by Eugene Field. This material was taken from the columns of the Chicago Daily News of Chicago, Ill., by Field, and published in the booklets called "The Works of Eugene Field," for the benefit of the feature editor of the 1929 GALE.

These booklets are very rare and it is probable that the material could not be produced except by a careful perusal of the files of the Chicago newspaper, or by taking out a card from the Public Library. The editor of the feature section of the GALE wishes to express his deep gratitude to the Galesburg Public Library and to George Fitch of the Star for furnishing this material which will enable the editor to fill his section].

TO SATIRE

Hail Satire! be thy praises ever sung
 In the dead language of a mummy's tongue,
 For he you led is dead, and damned as well—
 His spirit (usefully employed) in Hell.
 Had you been such as consecrates the Bible,
 They never would have had him stoned for libel.

—JACK LATIMER.

CHARACTERS

FLORA FAST, A gay Pi Phi.

JOHN STEADY, An honest young Beta.

MRS. GOODWOMAN, The Beta housemother.

AGNES NICE, A Zeta Pi.

Scene: The living room of the Beta house. There are cups strewn about the room and the floor is covered by a rug made of gold starred "K" sweaters.
Enter Agnes Nice and Mrs. Goodwoman.

Agnes (to Mrs. Goodwoman): I have come to ask you for the Hand of the Fairest of your house.

Mrs. Goodwoman: Can you mean John Steady? He whose Heart is of the purest gold?

Agnes: None other. Long have I admired him and now I propose honorable Matrimony.

Mrs. G.: It grieves me indeed to lose the fairest Flower of my flock.
(Enter John on the arm of Flora. John is not actually on Flora's arm, but this seems to be the way they say it).

Mrs. G.: John, Agnes Nice has proposed honorable Matrimony. Now which of these two do you most esteem?

John (running to Mrs. Goodwoman and hiding in her arms): Oh Mother, must I tell?

Mrs. G.: My Child, you must.

John (pointing to Flora): Then 'tis she who has won me by her artful Ways.

Mrs. G.: It is as I feared. And does the lure of the West Ball-room call you?

John: I am like a Moth dazzled by a Flame. The Great White Lights of Main Street beckon to me.

Agnes: But can you not see the Sham and Tinsel of it all?

John: No, I fear I am dazzled by the artful Promises of this beautiful Creature.

Agnes: Then all is over.

Mrs. G.: Wait (to Flora). What is your Occupation, young Woman?

Flora (with an evil leer): It is a nefarious one, I am a co-ed at Old Siwash.

Mrs. G.: And do you ride in Saunders' Cars?

Flora: Yes, and after dark at times.

Mrs. G.: Then you cannot have our little John to be your Plaything. Though Betas may be simple Folk they still have Hearts.

Flora: And do they all work to see that no disgrace shall fall on Beta Theta Pi?

Mrs. G.: They do, (she reaches for the bat with which the Beta captain made his hit last season) and now I must—

John: Hold, Mother, she is dear to me. Evil though she is, I will give her my Pin.

Flora (aside): Aha, evil though I am he gives me his Pin.

Mrs. G.: Nay, my Boy, do not take this rash Step.

John: One which I will regret until I am removed from this Vale of Tears by the gentle hand of God?

Mrs. G.: Yes (to Flora). Tell me, have you not worn other Pins than this? Think of your Mother, girl, before you answer.

Flora: My mother! Alas, I had forgotten her. (She strikes an attitude. Any attitude will do). John, know that I, Flora Fast, am engaged to seven People at this very Moment.

John: Seven! It is too much. And have you——?

Flora: Yes I have—kissed them. (She draws herself together and a lip-stick from her handbag). I am a Pi Phi.

John: Then go, Deceiver. I cannot be your Husband. Alas, I have been tricked. (He buries his head in one arm and with the other points to the Door—Flora walks brokenly from the Room).

Agnes: Goodby, John.

John: Stay, Girl, you are my true and only Love. 'Twas but a mere infatuation. (He kneels in front of Agnes and kisses her Hand. Then, after rising, he takes her Arm and lays it on the Mantle). Come, let us to the Library.

CURTAIN.

OUR REFRAIN

Oh A is the jolly archbishop,
On Friday he eats all the fish up—
Salmon and flounders and smelts;
On other days everything else.

D is for dog,
C is for cat,
F is for frog,

R is for rat,
Run, dog, mew, cat,
Jump, frog, gnaw, rat.

“ASK ME ANOTHER,” SAID THE QUIZZICAL HAYSEED,
DOFFING HIS TEN GALLON STETSON

(“You ain’t seen nothin’ yet,” said the spry young country fellar to the man in the car pointed south. How’s this: “Let’s go out to dinner, honey,” said Jimmie. “All rightie. Where?” she queried. “Well, who’ll we get to invite us,” was the right snappy come-back. Now let’s flip to see who will leave the room).

OUR ADVICE

Migawd, Freshie. Don't study! Do you want to be taking a post-grad course in a couple of years?

A DENUNCIATION

Ah, punster, would my lot were cast
Where the cobbler is unknown
So that I might forget his last
And also hear your own.

WE HAVE, TOO

God's good laws, I faithfully have kept,
And ever for the sins of man have wept;
And sometimes sitting in the chapel I
Have reverently crossed my hands and slept.

REFLECTIONS OF AN EDITOR

The Editor of the GALE hereby challenges anyone to explain to him just why is an annual. And if so, why not? Yonder tree looks blue. Migawd, freshie, what mayhap wollen sie mit keinen bleistift? Look out! Here comes the printer. They say the Mercury is corrosive.

HAS IT COME TO THIS?

Grandpa says concerning the other sex:

Girls may have been harder to kiss in my day, but it wasn't so blamed dangerous—never had to worry about steering the old parlor sofa.

Time was when a girl would say to her beau: "Good night, I'll see you tomorrow." Now she says: "So long, I'll sue you later."

A girl used to worry about the future, but all the modern girl thinks about is the present.

In the good old days a young lady never had to walk home—now she never does.

First Knox Stude: "Let's go out and drag a smoke."

Second Farmer: "I ain't got time to bother with no wimmin tonight."

A LEAP-YEAR EPISODE

Can I forget that winter night
 In eighteen eighty-four,
 When Nellie, charming little sprite,
 Came tapping at the door?
 "Good evening, Miss," I, blushing, said,
 For in my heart I knew—
 And, knowing, hung my pretty head—
 That Nellie came to woo.

She clasped my big red hand, and fell
 Adown upon her knees,
 And cried: "You know I love you well,
 So be my husband, please!"
 And then she swore she'd ever be
 A tender wife and true.
 Ah, what delight it was to me
 That Nellie came to woo!

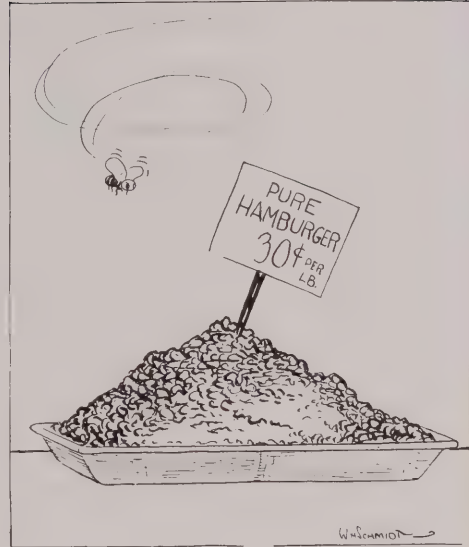

She'd lace my shoes, and darn my hose,
 And mend my shirts, she said;
 And grease my comely Roman nose
 Each night on going to bed;
 She'd build the fires, and fetch the coal,
 And split the kindling, too.
 Love's perjuries o'erwhelmed her soul
 When Nellie came to woo.

And as I, blushing, gave no check
 To her advances rash,
 She twined her arms about my neck,
 And toyed with my mustache;
 And then she pleaded for a kiss,
 While I—what could I do
 But coyly yield me to that bliss
 When Nellie came to woo?

I am engaged, and proudly wear
 A gorgeous diamond ring,
 And I shall wed my lover fair
 Sometime in gentle spring.
 I face my doom without a sigh;
 And so, forsooth, would you,
 If you but loved as fond as I,
 And Nellie came to woo.

TO A PI PHI

O maiden fair with auburn hair,
 So lithe, so blithe, so debonaire,
 Your cheeks rose hue, your eyes of blue,
 Your face, your grace, they thrill me through.
 Your teeth so white, your step so light,
 Your hose, your clothes my love excite.
 But though a tear to cause I fear
 I must, it's just, say this, my dear:
 Don't touch, my pet, that cigarette.
 It's mine, not thine, and don't forget.

Clothes and the Girl with "IT"

Clothes may not make the man—but they certainly give a girl a lot of "it."

What is "It?" Clara Bow is said to have it and you come away from a movie with Clara as the leading light with that delightful sensation of having been pleasantly entertained. You may not be able to define that elusive something called "it" but you recognize it in Clara Bow or any other girl.

There's no argument that smart clothes do make a girl feel differently—besides making her look vastly different. Clothes—the right kind—give her that envied poise, that assurance of being correct and that calm self-confidence necessary for her to get the most fun out of living.

A modern girl's clothes need not be expensive to be smart. But they must be the last word in style, in fashion correctness.

The clothes she selects here are smart, yet not at all expensive. And they are the kind of clothes that give a girl a lot of "it."

ABOUT OUR ADVERTISERS

Without the support of these merchants who have so willingly advertised in the 1929 GALE, it would probably not be possible to publish an annual. In return for their investment in advertising the merchants expect to receive a certain amount of patronage from the students. In order to co-operate with the merchants as they have co-operated with the students, we must notice the names of the advertisers and give them due credit for their support and take some steps to patronize their businesses.

Since their support is so essential to the financing of the GALE, and since it has been so freely given, the staff hereby records its appreciation, and recommends these merchants and other advertisers to the students and alumni as deserving of their trade and patronage.

Where Your Money Went!

Or the true story of Knox's biggest graft

In response to a number of requests from members of the student body of our Alma Mater we are presenting this true statement of how we did Knox college. We feel that in accomplishing the results which we shall explain later we have done our duty to our God and our country, Greed and Cook county. (Since we have a very small circulation in Cook county we do not regard our risk as very significant).

What we do not want to do, however, is to give the impression of levity, or shallowness of purpose. Please bear with us in the following statement of the origin of our great project. Early in the year 1927 Mr. Dieterich and myself took over what is now known to be the greatest hoax ever perpetrated in the history of Old Siwash. (With the possible exception of the supposition, which seems (Continued on Page 204).

to be current, that Eugene Field didn't leave Knox College because he didn't like it here). I refer to the 1929 GALE. In entering this field of endeavor both Dieterich and I realized the tremendously detrimental effect it might have on both of us, namely, we might lose the combined respect of the students, the faculty and the alumni, not to mention our own self-respect; further, we might become associated with that widely suspected group of extortionists and blackmailers, the publishers of Knox papers and magazines; then too, we might be-

This is the only authentic view of the staff of the 1929 GALE running away from work. As you may discern for yourselves, this is not the whole staff, but only the spirit of the group. It was estimated that if the energy used in this highly destructive way had been allowed the track team in the state meet they would have defeated Bradley by no less than $78\frac{1}{4}$ points, not to mention winning the five mile walk and the bicycle race. As it is, however, we prize this sole evidence of the act, and hope we never see another like it. A dedication!

THE ADVERTISERS' GAZETTE

Volume I

Number 13

Before I begin this article on the more obscene and pungent activities of certain members of the student body of Knox College, I may as well explain how it came into existence. I am referring, of course, to the literary out-burst and not to Knox College. This section, which I have decided to call The Advertisers' Gazette, is the result of a great deal of persuasion on the part of the editor of the GALE. If I were to tell you the enormous sum of money I am to receive for this work you would certainly be surprised. If I were to tell you I received any money for this work you would be surprised. So would I.

It all came about one day in the Phi Delt lounge of Seymour hall. I was resting peacefully on one of the large davenports near the fireplace when in came Harper Andrews.

"Hello Harp," I said. We're friends you see and I always call Harper "Harp."

"Hello Jack," he replied. That's my name, Jack. "I've got some news for you."

"What," said I. "is it?"

"You're going to write the feature section of the 1929 GALE."

At this point Leslie Dieterich entered.

"Yes," he said. "we must have reading matter next to the advertising."

"That's the idea," said Harper. "Do you think you can do it?"

"Sure I can," I said modestly. "I can write material that is readable. I'll write it so even a five year old child can read it. How will this be? 'Eddie Baron is a captain. He is also a Beta. The Beta house is the home of the Knox——'"

"Wait a minute," cut in Harper. "It had better be a little more mature than that; it's for the students."

"And I might add," added the business manager, I'm pretty sure it was the business manager, not Harper, who added, "that it must be humorous."

"I'm afraid," I said, "that I can't do it. I can write a funny article about as easily as you can throw a piano over 'Old Main.'"

"Never mind," said Harper, "just write anything. Maybe somebody will think it's funny."

"No," I said, "I won't do it. My mind is made up."

So here I am struggling night after night in an effort to see that the advertisements are not lonely. There must be reading matter next to the advertising.
There shall be!

One of the few advantages of being the editor of a section like this is the nice letters I get from people. Oh what nice letters I do receive. Let me show you one or two. Here's one from the editor of the Sixwasher.

Dear Latimer:

I hear you are going to be in charge of the features for the GALE this year. I want to warn you about "razzing" me or the Siwasher in your section. Don't do it if you know what's good for you. Remember, the last Siwasher comes out after the GALE so if you aren't careful I'll get you the way I got the Student.
Collins.

You can't imagine how I felt when I received this horrid letter. It sent a cold chill right up and down my back and I resolved to be sure to say nothing at all about the Siwasher. So if anything appears in the GALE about your darn old magazine, Mr. Collins, please don't blame me. Here is another letter.

Dear Latimer:

I understand the feature section of the GALE is often filled up with pictures of the most popular men on the Knox campus. Please don't forget me for I honestly believe I am one of the most likeable men in the college. Last fall they elected me to the Players' Club and I am invited up to the Phi Delt house for dinner every Monday and Thursday.

I'm sorry "Bobby" that we are not running a popularity contest. Maybe the Sircasher will run a beauty contest that you can enter. Here is the last letter.

Dear Jack:

You remember you promised not to mention my name in the last year's feature section of the GALE. Well, I wonder if you could forget that promise this year? You see there is a common impression around school that I was not elected to the Junior prom committee and I wish you could correct it. I am sure you could do it in a delicate manner.

Yours,
Jean Barry.

These letters I have shown you are merely a few of the hundreds I have received this year. But opening them all was an easy task compared to the labor I have done in connection with the selecting of suitable recipients for nomination to the Knox Hall of Fame. Before I begin my list of names which I hope to make famous, I will tell you what caused me to embark upon this campaign to glorify the Knox male. While I have always felt that that great humorous organization, Phi Beta Kappa, has its place on the campus for the promotion of mirth in its selection of future high school teachers, I still have believed that there is room for another society of more serious nature. With this in mind I have decided to consecrate the rest of this section to the Unsung Heroes of the Knox campus.

looking up at the broad, dirty, south wall of the Beta house, when suddenly a figure appeared in the top window, opening out from the dormitory, and perched on the ledge as if to jump. Naturally of a philanthropic inclination we hastened to the Beta house and, dashing wildly up the stairs, burst into the dorm and grabbed the sleepy fellow from the window-sill. And who should it be but our hero).

Now that I have these selections off my chest I will turn to other and bigger things. Inasmuch as it seems to be the custom of the various publications on the campus to take various and sundry sly pokes at one another I will, perforce, do the same in the name of "THE ADVERTISERS' GAZETTE." The first of these Knox publications that comes to my mind is "The Sincasher." However, as you have seen, I have already promised to say nothing at all about this tions with a name. Of course I wouldn't dare mention anyone in this connection, but this man heads a group which, so 'tis said, or rather rumored, is headed by a man whose name is James Witte.

The editor told me to fill the latter part of this journal with the opinions of prominent Knox people on matters of inter-collegiate importance—in other words he ordered me to ask people questions; to play the part of the inquiring reporter.

"But what shall I ask them?" asked I.

"That's for you to figure out," said the editor sternly.

I thought for some little time about the nature of these questions. Finally I decided to ask some of the fair co-eds their opinion about marriage. A number of likely questions popped into my head. "How much must your future husband make a year before you will marry him?" "What occupation would you prefer him to pursue?" "Who is your ideal man?"

And so on. Moreover, the GALE would have to pay my expenses on the "dates" these interviews would necessitate.

With this in mind I bounded into a neighboring drug store, leaped at the telephone, and, after a series of rapid conversations with the Knox County Garbage Removers' Association, the Ginsberg Match Pants Company, the Elite Beauty Parlors, and Messrs. Oakes, Oakes, and Parbury, dealers in fancy groceries, I found myself in communication with a young lady whom I had best call Alice Brown.

"Alice?" I said cautiously, fearful of hearing yet another strange voice say "Wadnumjerwant?" "Alice, is that you?"

"Yes, who is that?"

"'Tis I; Jack Latimer. Have you a date for tomorrow night?"

"I am awfully sorry, Jack, but I have another engagement."

"Then the only night left is this one. It is too bad I have a date tonight because I sure would ask you if I didn't."

"It is too bad you have a date," said Alice. "This is the one evening I have free."

"I was just fooling," I said quickly, "I haven't a date after all."

"Well, I was just fooling, too. I really have a date for tonight. Good-bye."

I next called up a girl whom I had best call Edith Williams. I finally persuaded her to take a date with me for the next evening.

After I had entertained royally on money which I believed the GALE would refund, we went into her living room (Continued on page 226) come entangled in that treacherous net called Temptation and be dragged down to the Depths of Bad Business (where salesmen flourish and the advertising cover the cost of publication).

With this stupendous risk in mind we boldly determined to throw all caution to the winds, as it were, and in exchange take some of the dear people's money. With this in mind we have published the 1929 GALE, and our success is unquestioned. Just the other day we had a very enticing offer from a high-salaried executive in New York asking us if it would be possible by the expenditure of a few thousands of dollars to have him elected as editor of the 1930 GALE, saying that his health was very poor and he felt the need of an extensive tour of Europe which his present salary of some $10,000 a year would not permit. (This is confidential, of course). But since Dieterich was not in town and I was in a religious frame of mind at the moment we were forced to write back and tell him that we had already traded the editorship of the Globe for a chess captaincy and could not accept his kind offer. That incident is non-essential, however, and I shall continue with the account of our work. We worked fast! There is no doubt about it. In fact we practically finished with our work when the results of the election to our office was announced. But of course we had to put up a little show, so Dieterich got some ads and I got a few pictures for the book and we had a little advance sale and things generally rolled along as things always do with editors and immediate managers. Well, the first thing we knew it was spring, and here was the last page of the Globe and nothing to put on it. So being always running over with little tricks I suggested that we tell the students and other dear readers just how they were duped the last time.

Just to make my point clear I fear that I shall have to show you the statement which Dieterich and I have made out to show where we got all our money. We did not think that you would want to know how we spent it, particularly

After taking out for ourselves all that we wanted, as we learned was the old custom among business managers and editors, we decided that we were as crooked as some people might think, so we planned a really beneficial investment for the rest of the funds. We heard of a man who was selling land in Texas and would supply managers for an ostrich farm if we would furnish the cash and a sizeable commission on the transaction. We did not know for sure whether this man was a Knox graduate or not, but he was certainly smart enough to be one, in fact he was able to grasp the situation and the money in a way that would astonish any but Dieterich and me. But having had a year of experience with running the GALE, we knew just how the old graft game was worked, so when we asked this man for 1000 of his best acres in Texas we sort of took him by surprise. He thought he would have to talk us into 500 acres or so, but no, we were game to take all he had in the way of good level land. The land was about 46c an acre so we paid him for it and asked for a manager for our ostrich farm.

We agreed to pay the manager this agent hired for us and to pay the agent himself a good, big commission and so he told us of a manager whom he had in mind for our farm. Now who do you think it was? We do not wish to disclose his name here, but you can find his picture under the C's in the Senior section of this book. We did not know at first whether we wanted this man for our manager or not, because we expected to get some of the profits from this farm ourselves. But after the agent
